Golf course proposal not on par with locals

by KEN O'YOUNG
Lakeland Newspapers

A proposed 605-acre golf course development to be constructed within Antioch Township, met stiff resident resistance during a July 11 Planning Commission Meeting held at Antioch Village Hall.

The parcel of land in question is located immediately south of Rte. 173 and east of Rte. 45. Owned by Bill Anest, a petroleum distributor, the 605-acre parcel is better known by Antioch residents as the former Homer White Farm.

Making the concept stage presentation was John Martin of Jen Land Design, land planners of the proposed development and representative for Anest. In addition, more than 35 Antioch residents were also in attendance to hear the proposal and voice their concerns about the proposed project.

Jen Land's plan for the Anest parcel proposed 394 acres, approximately 65 percent of the total acreage, is being deeded or dedicated to the Village of Antioch; 224 of the deeded/dedicated acres would be left as open space; and the remaining 170 acres would be used for a public golf course.

Martin stated that the development and management of the golf course would be the responsibility of the Village of Antioch, causing those in attendance to shake their heads in disbelief. One resident questioned how Antioch could even consider constructing and managing a $2.5 million golf course when larger schools were needed.

Disbelief turned to a mild uproar after Martin presented the housing scheme for the proposed golf course development: 605 living units proposed for 211 acres,

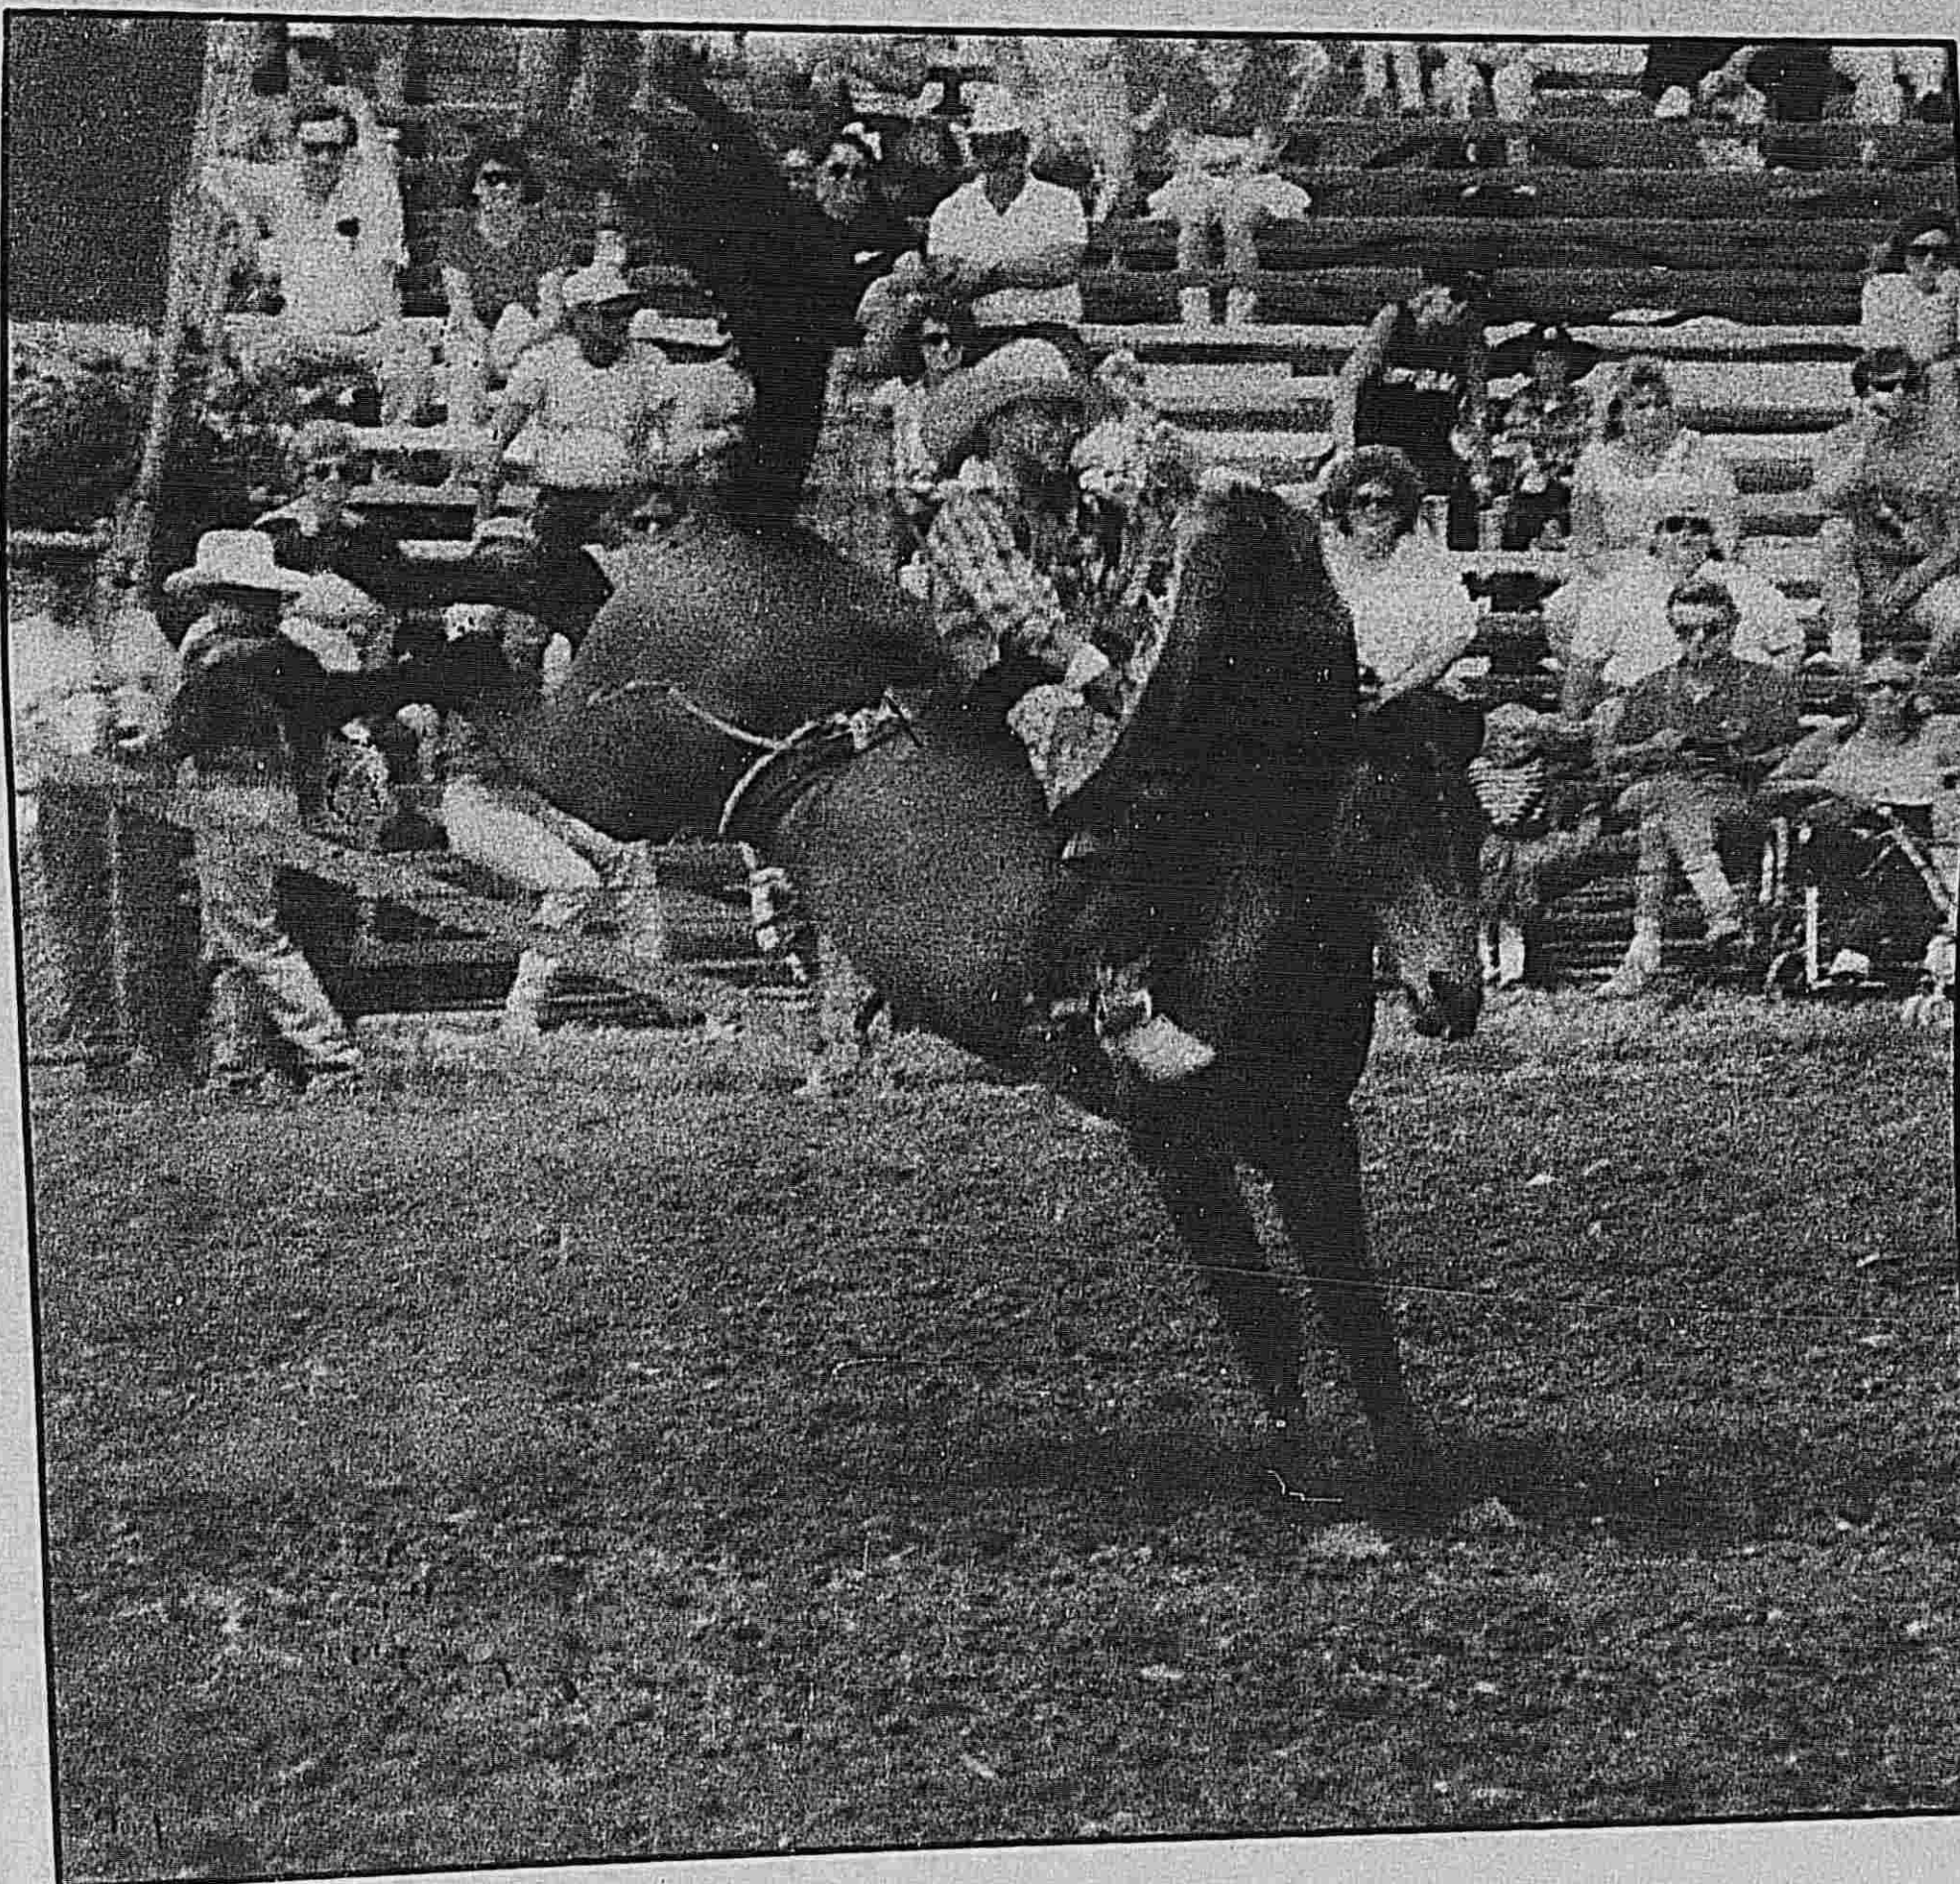

'I can tell you that the land you mentioned on Rte. 45 is mine, and I'll never sell it for commercial use'—Mrs. Doolittle divided into five sections.

Of the 211 acres, two sections would be utilized for single-family semi-custom and custom homes with lot sizes between 20,000 and 30,000 square feet. Another section, located in the northeast portion of the development, would have single family starter homes with 5,000 to 6,000 square foot lot sizes, and a 15-acre section would be used for townhomes. The remaining section would be used as the model area.

The new Eagle Ridge Development, located east of the proposed golf course development, is an 88-acre development with 52 homesites average 40,000 square feet in size.

The 605 proposed units does conform to the 1-acre overall density requirements stated in Antioch's comprehensive plan of the east sub area. However, the proposed lot sizes, especially those of the single-family starter homes stirred concern in

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

For the first time this weekend, Antioch's Max-well Street Days will feature a Taste of Antioch, with more than a dozen local restaurants participating.

The restaurants will show off their specialties, from mussels marinara to pizza and ribs and steak sandwiches, oyster shots, gyros, tacos, strudel, corn nuggets and so on.

"We wanted to show off our restaurants and give a taste of some of the finer ones," says Frank DiMarco, owner of DiMarco's, a Chamber of Commerce member and chairman for the Taste of Antioch program.

"We tried to add a finer touch, a finer taste of Antioch," he said. Each restaurant, therefore, was told to supply three of its specialties.

Oppose development

ANTIOCH—A proposed 605-acre golf course development to be constructed at the former Homer White Farm, Rte 173 and Rte. 45, met with opposition from residents concerned with the capacity of schools to handle the extra students and the density of the project.

Pageant apathy

LINDENHURST—The deadline for applications for the Miss Lindenhurst pageant had to be extended because only one contestant had applied by the original deadline. Lindenhurst's neighbor Antioch ran into the same dilemma last month and was forced to extend the deadline ending up with four contestants.

Stop dumping

FOX LAKE—Acting on neighbor complaints, Building Com. Fred Dierker ordered James Kanzler to halt unauthorized dumping in a construction site Kanzler is developing for a shopping center. Residents nearby said Kanzler was burying garbage and building debris. Ray Duba, who lives near the site, reported that Kanzler also is threatening private wells by excavating near the water table. Voice of Ingleside, a watchdog organization, received complaints. Dierker said a state inspector told Kanzler that he faces heavy fines and possible confiscation of his property if dumping is continued.

Drew rites

WAUKEGAN—Funeral services were held Thursday for Bernard Drew Sr., 73, former political leader and past president of the North Shore Sanitary Dist., who died Monday at Victory Memorial Hospital. Mr. Drew, owner and operator of an excavating business, was the father of Circuit Judge Bernard Drew Jr. of Libertyville, former chief judge of the 19th Judicial Dist.

Board rejects comptroller

NORTH CHICAGO—The North Chicago City Council voted Monday evening to reject a proposed ordinance that would have created the position of a comptroller to oversee city finances. The vote was eight to five in favor of the proposal, but failed because a two-thirds majority was required for passage.

Child abduction

Senior cabs stop

AVON TWP.—Avon Twp. senior citizens are searching for a new means of transportation since Avon Twp. Supervisor Russ Christian terminated the contract with Lake County Transportation System, Inc. Christian said he found several violations of the Pace contract.

Oust park board

GURNEE—Gurnee residents upset over high taxes filed a petition aiming at ousting the current park board. The issue would go to a vote at the Nov. 5 election. Although petitioners claim a new park district would be able to meet the needs of residents, park officials say all programs would cease.

Pageant forms set

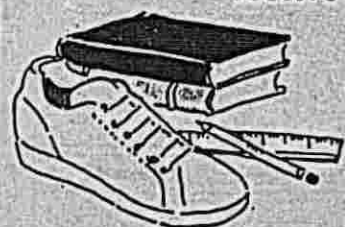

WADSWORTH—Little Miss Wadsworth Pageant applications are now available at Wadsworth Village Hall. The contest will be held Sept. 6 at village hall. Girls must be between ages six and eight and live within the village limits. For more information, call the village at (708) 336-7771 or Phyllis Chumbley, (708) 623-7369.

Concept approved

WAUCONDA—Mayor James Keagle broke a tied vote to approve the concept of developing 440 acres otherwise known as the Roncy Farm despite a petition drive opposing the development which netted 1,022 signatures. Trustees voting in favor of the plan argued that they were just approving the concept, not the final development.

Salutos woos diners with real taste of Italy

That's amore. A love affair has blossomed between people who like reasonably priced, authentic Italian treats served in generous portions and Salutos Pizza and Pasta Restaurant.

Bob Bode and Brian Scott — buddies since their high school days — opened their eatery at 7680 W. Grand Ave., Gurnee, in December. With the culinary artistry of chef Jerry Reizner as a foundation, the restaurant has been making a steady stream of customers full and happy ever since.

The food stands on its own merits, and the ambience is a plus. The Italian tree-shaded courtyard theme really puts you in the mood for Salutos' brand of ciao chow.

Chicago-style pan pizza and freshly made pasta dishes and desserts representing the different regions of Italy are the people pleasers.

Dishes come prepared in a variety of modes, including al forno (baked) and da fuoco (from the fire). One of the chef's favorites is a carne da fuoco, Steak Saluto — morsels of ham and select cheeses, pocketed into a tender breaded filet of beef and sauteed in a house tomato-wine sauce with mushrooms.

In all, there are 27 choices of pasta and 12 meat varieties, including chicken, pork, beef and seafood. Sauces include marinara, mushrooms, meat, clam, butter or aglio et olio — the original garlic and olive oil sauce.

Because many of the dinners come with all-you-can-eat salad and garlic rolls, most people end up leaving with a doggie bag.

Specials are run every lunch and dinner. Average lunch prices range from $4.95 to $6.95, while dinner prices average $6.95 to $9.95. Visa, Mastercard, Discover and American Express are accepted.

Salutos also offers a complete bar, an impressive wine list, carryout and catering for private parties.

Salutos is open Tuesdays through Thursdays from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m. and Sundays from 1 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Reunion brings 57 guests and much more

'My neighbors are nice. They volunteered picnic tables and tents. My son's neighbors put up with about 20 cars parked in a line on their street — Dorothy Schneider, a resident of Lindenhurst and co-host of the reunion

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Spanning four generations and representing states on both coasts and the midwest, a 57-person reunion last week converged on homes in Antioch and Lindenhurst.

"We were Schneider's KOA campground," said Dorothy Schneider of Lindenhurst, who hosted the reunion along with her son, Bob Schneider of Antioch.

"My house was the campground and breakfast area, Bob's house was water sports and lunch and dinner," she said. "We weren't all here, either. If we all managed to get here, there'd be about 80 of us."

The ones who did show came from 13 different states, from New York to California, with Alaska being the farthest. Four generations were in attendance and ages ranged from six-months to 71 years old.

"There are different ages and occupations and interests, and we all get together and enjoy each other," Dorothy said.

The reunions occur every three years. Family members are from the clan "Aspholm," which means "isles of the trees" in Swedish, she said.

Lottie Johnson, one of six remaining members of the original Aspholm clan, said family reunions have gone on since she was a child living in Iowa.

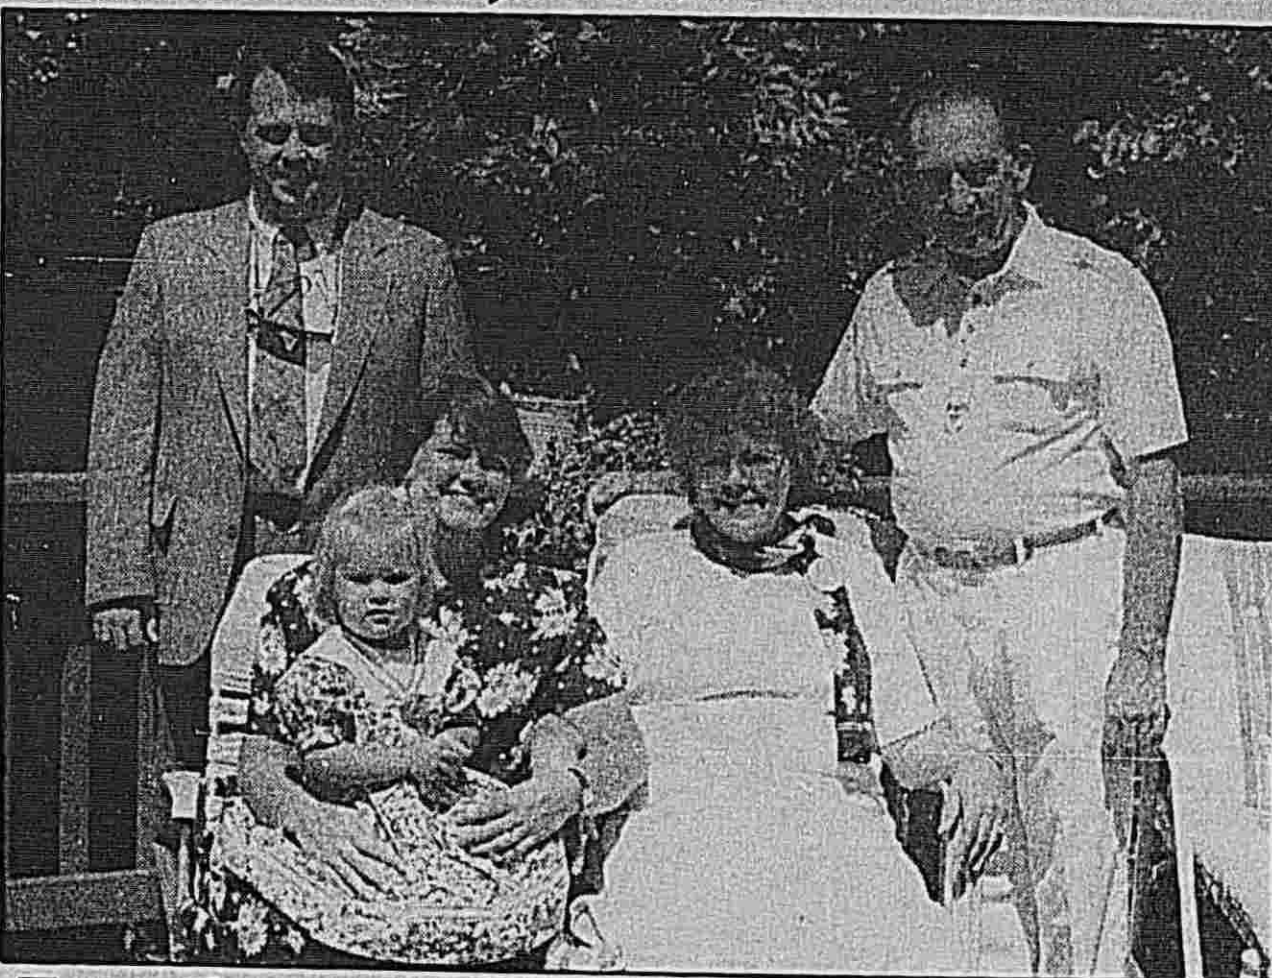

"We used to have 100 to 120 people a year, but they didn't come from the distance they do now," said Johnson, who lives in Kansas. "Everyone was a farmer or in some farm-related occupation."

She said the Aspholm's modern family reunions "bring lots of different color."

"It's just been wonderful," agreed Pat Johnston, who came from Fairbanks, Alaska. "We've had wonderful food, wonderful entertainment and I've enjoyed meeting with my family and friends."

Ensuring the success of a reunion this large is no easy matter, the Schneiders said. Planning is done on a corporate level

Lindenhurst, Antioch involved

Together again

— with committees.

At each reunion, a business meeting is held to decide where the next event will be held three years later. The Schneiders were actually the second choice for this year's reunion. It was supposed to be held in California, but the family there had to cancel.

"This was the backup site, the site just in case," Dorothy said.

The families began arriving July 9. Six tents were pitched in Dorothy's backyard and the rest holed up in the Antioch Regency, where 16 rooms were rented out for the occasion.

"My (Lindenhurst) neighbors, I warned them so if they wanted to get out of town," she said. "My neighbors are nice. They volunteered picnic tables and tents. My son's neighbors (in Antioch) put up

'It's just been wonderful. We've had wonderful food, wonderful entertainment and I've enjoyed meeting with my family and friends — Pat Johnston of Fairbanks, Alaska with about 20 cars parked in a line on their street."

"We told them to expect a crowd," said her son, Bob. "A couple looked over and I don't know if it was disbelief or, 'Wow.'"

The Schneiders also spent $1,600 at the grocery store in preparation for the event. That cost did not include meat from the butcher or items that ran out or were forgotten.

Once the families were situated, committees were formed for the week of events. The bar committee was charged with Happy Hour; the environmental control committee with picking litter up off the ground; the activities committee with entertainment; and several food-serving committees with dinner.

The clan even had their own newspaper for the week, the "Aspholm Antics," which featured the day's menu, activities from the previous day and interviews with some of the older family members.

"It's a lot of work but everyone has fun. We all share duties," said Bob Schneider, Dorothy's husband.

Each individual family unit is responsible for a night's dinner. Some of the meals had themes, such as Swedish night or Tex-Mex night, which was prepared by the families from Texas and New Mexico.

Dorothy's son Bob said last Sunday night's dinner was his favorite part of the whole weeklong event. "Everyone was there," he said. "A couple of family members were able to come out just for the day and they were there. It was the big meal for everyone."

That night, 40-plus cuts of prime rib were served. It took two ovens, Bob said.

When the final cleanup is over, the Schneiders expect to fill more than 27 bags of garbage, which is what they filled at the last reunion in Topeka, Kan.

"I'll do it again if they want me to. I loved it," Bob said.

Next year, however, no family may have to host the whole affair. "We're getting so big it's hard to host it," Dorothy said. "We're going to see if we can rent a campground or a resort area."

The reunion ended Sunday and family began leaving Monday and Tuesday. The final guests left Wednesday. Bob said saying goodbye probably took more effort than the entire weeklong affair.

Jaycees pig party July 27

North Region Jaycees third annual Antioch Pig Party will be held at Captain's Quarters, 38283 N. Bolton Pl., on July 27. The party starts at 2 p.m. and goes until whenever the fun stops.

General admission is $4 per person or $6 per couple. Member admission is $2 per person. A complete dinner including roasted pig and other entrees is available for $6 per person. Beer is available for 75 cents.

The summer regional luau festivities include a volleyball tournament, horse-shoes, music, boating and tubing, and lots of raffles and prizes.

Smoke detector hailed as lifesaver in Sunday fire

A smoke detector in an apartment at 396 Poplar may have saved as many as 13 lives early Sunday morning, according to Lee Shannon, public safety inspector.

"That's how our ordinance has paid off," Shannon said, referring to the Village's 11-month-old ordinance that requires "monitoring" smoke detectors in apartment complexes by August 1992.

He said a smoke detector in the hall of an apartment at 396 Poplar went off at 3:45 a.m. Sunday, alerting the residents and helping to evacuate the building. The monitoring alarm also alerted the fire department, which was on the scene within five minutes, Shannon said.

The fire was caused by a candle that burned down to the nightstand it was

'This shows right out the foot-dragging has got to stop' — Lee Shannon, public safety inspector on, Shannon said. Damage to the bedroom of the apartment was estimated at $10,000.

The 13 people in the apartment complex at the time escaped uninjured, he said, adding that the 396 Poplar complex was one of the first to comply with the Village's smoke detector ordinance.

Shannon said other apartment owners are "dragging their feet. But I think this shows right out the foot-dragging has got to stop."

Promotional theme for Antioch blossoms

"Antioch, Illinois—In Bloom 365 Days A Year" is the winning entry in a theme contest jointly sponsored by the Village's Redevelopment Commission and Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Certificates worth $400 in U.S. Savings Bonds were presented to winner Katharine Hill at the July 1 meeting of the Village of Antioch Board of Trustees.

An Antioch Regency Inn employee for over two years, Hill is a student at College of Lake County and a Round Lake Beach resident.

The U.S. Savings Bonds were donated by State Bank of Antioch, First National Bank of Antioch, Bank of Waukegan, and First Chicago/The First National Bank of Chicago.

Hill's winning entry was among over 60 themes considered by contest judges Theresa Kovach, Linda Pedersen, Al Robbins, David Scarpelli, Donna Schmehl, Roger Sorenson and Mary Kay Tointon.

Since the judging, David Scarpelli, advertising agency art director and one of the contest judges, has provided three designs illustrating potential uses of the winning theme. "I grew up in Antioch," said Scarpelli. "I am pleased to contribute these concepts on a complimentary basis to my hometown."

The Redevelopment Commission and Chamber of Commerce will now consider specific ways in which the winning theme and its illustrations will be used.

"This theme is versatile, as Scarpelli's art concepts indicate—useful in advertising as well as for brochures, banners, and other village projects," said Dr. Donald Skidmore, Redevelopment Commission Chair.

WAVES claim top honors at Antioch Invitational

The Antioch WAVES edged Zion 283-270 to claim to honors in a five-way contest at the State Bank of Antioch's annual Antioch Invitational, held Sunday, July 14 at the Antioch Aqua Center.

Third place went to Lake Geneva, with 184 points overall, followed by the Gurnee Park Dist. and McHenry II squads. Zion, under the direction of Marty and Roy Berry, led the field for much of the morning, forcing Coach Gregg Henning's Antioch squad to play catch-up through event 39 of 50 events when they grabbed the lead by a point and held on for the victory.

Two new meet records were set during Sunday's competition. In the 14 and under boy/girl medley relay, Antioch's Rodney Behm, John Skurski, Shannon Walsh and Kelly Sullivan turned in a combined time of 1:25.81, bettering the former Invitational Mark of 1:26.95 set in 1990.

Zion's Ryan Rothermel put his name in the record book for 10 under boys 66.7 yd. freestyle with a 48.09 sec. performance—more than a second faster than the 1988 mark of 49.84 set by Antioch's Eric Turley.

The win capped a successful week for the State Bank of Antioch-sponsored WAVES, which included dual meet victories over both Zion and Woodstock.

The WAVES will travel to Algonquin on Tuesday to face Trails; followed by Thursday night competition against a tough McHenry I squad at McHenry. Starting time for both meets is 5:30 p.m.

The WAVES also have swimmers going to the Novice Championship on Saturday at McHenry. This conference-wide meet is the first of two championship meets marking the end of Antioch's summer season. Algonquin is the second.

Fox Lake officer arrested

An Antioch man later identified as a Fox Lake police officer was arrested Monday and charged with the burglary of a neighbor's car, police said.

Jon Sutter, 32, of 762 Main St. was arrested with Richard Randall, 23, also of 762 Main St., after a resident called Antioch police concerning what appeared to be a burglary of a friend's car at 760 Main St., police said.

Sutter and Randall told police they were just looking into the car by permission of the owner in case they wanted to buy, but investigation revealed they were allegedly trying to steal a radio from the Chevy Camaro, police said.

Both men were charged with felony burglary to a vehicle and criminal damage to property, Antioch police said. They were taken to Lake County jail and released on bond.

Randall, who reportedly joined the Fox Lake Police Department a few months ago after graduating from the Illinois Police Academy, has been suspended by Fox Lake pending an internal investigation.

St. Peter's church hosts pig roast on Sunday

by LIZ SCHMEHL
(708)395-5380
Pig Roast

If someone asked me what my favorite meat was, I would quickly reply "pork" and my mouth is watering as I write this. For all of you fellow pork lovers out there read on. On Sunday, July 21, the Council of Catholic Women of St. Peter's Parish, in Antioch, will be hosting a pig roast.

They have a delicious menu planned and if you stop in between noon and 6 p.m. you can enjoy a delicious pork dinner for only $5 for adults, $3 for children, and the little ones, two and under, are free.

The price is right, the location is close. So if you like pork, make it a point to visit St. Peter's on July 21. How about it, Donna, Jim Sr., dinner at St. Peter's and then the movies?

Caring Community

As you read this paper, there will be 1 1/2 more days left in the gigantic community garage sale, held in the Grass Lake School gym. The proceeds from the sale will benefit the Candy Rognstad family as she is faced with Candy's lengthy illness. The dates of the sale are Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, July 18, 19 and 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Stop by and help support this worthy cause.

Busy Town

Who needs the "Taste of Chicago" not us Antiochians. On July 18, 19 and 20, we will have the opportunity to participate in the "Taste of Antioch."

This first time ever special "Hometown" event will be running in conjunction with Antioch's Annual Maxwell Street Days. I understand that many of our fine local restaurants will be on hand selling tasty samples of their delicious foods. There will be a bingo tent, petting zoo, continuous live entertainment, and bargains galore.

Don't miss this "double-header" event "Taste of Antioch/Maxwell Street Days."

Today—

Okay, people, put the paper down long enough to visit the rummage and bake sale held today, July 19 at St. Ignatius church located at 977 Main St., Antioch. The sale is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. It is sponsored by the St. Ignatius Women's Guild and all proceeds go to benefit the charities sponsored by the church. So stop reading for a while, go to St. Ignatius Church and come back home to finish the paper.

Miss Antioch

As of June 29 we have a new Miss Antioch for 1991. Shelley Brausam, daughter of Don and Linda Brausam, was chosen Miss Antioch 1991 by a panel of distinguished judges. There were four contestants in this year's pageant, Shelley, plus Kristal Gust, Korina were 21 pretty little girls vying for this title, ranging in age from six to nine-years-old. First they filed out in their play/street wear, and then each of them picked a question to answer and answer it they did.

Two of my favorite questions and answers were "What makes you happy and why?" The honest and the other little contestant immediately gathered around her to congratulate her.

Congratulations, Mandi, I know you will have a good time being "Little Miss Antioch 1991."

Citizens On Parade

Okay, people, how many of you noticed me lurking around at the annual Antioch Firemen's Dance? I was lurking from about 9 to 11 p.m. During that short time, I had an opportunity to spot or chit-chat with many familiar Antiochians.

As soon as I arrived I ran into Miss Antioch 1991, Shelley Brausam, her parents, Don and Linda, and her escort, Jason Nolan. Then I had the opportunity to chat with one of the trustees of Antioch, Mabel Lou Weber. I must admit that Mabel and I were definitely enjoying the music of Ernie Levas and Company. Andy Jones of Lindenhurst, was there and naturally my son, Jim, enjoyed visiting with him.

I especially enjoyed the interesting conversation I had with Ruth Tarkowski. Ruth was with her daughter, Bonnie, and pretty granddaughter, Bridget. Cathy Milovanovic and I exchanged a few jokes and shared a bag of popcorn.

I spotted Pat Sikorski tending bar and Brandi Houle was enjoying the music of "Uncle Ernie." Stacy Zybylut and Amy Hansen were talking with Miss Antioch, and Jon Utians was in the McDonald's parking lot with several of his friends.

Matt Schultz, Selena Platner, Cindy Pierce, Tricia Olenick, Rich Cheterbok, Rick Motley, Kim Motley, Chuck Kempf, Marlene Olsen, and Donna Schmehl were all on hand as representatives of former GLS students. Joyce and Mark Sondag told me they were able to catch the chipmunk who adopted their home and release him back to the wild. Other faces or voices in the crowd were Craig Maier, Linda Boerman, Dee Samson, Dave and Lori Teaters, Norm Weldon, Cybil Fritz, Sue and Jim Hallwas, Dr. Abderholden, Randy Edwards and hundreds of people who I naturally did not know, but maybe will someday!

Special Lady

I would like to wish Clara Haling a Happy Belated fourth of July birthday. Clara turned 80 years "young" on the Fourth of July and this special event was the basis for a fantastic party held at Hunter's Country Club on Wednesday, July 3. Sorry, I could not make the party, Clara. I promise I will be there for your 90th.

Hometown Goodies

Lacas, and Deanna Olenick. They all did a great job and all looked beautiful in their street wear, bathing suits, and elaborate evening gowns.

Shelley is a former Grass Lake School student and a 1991 graduate of ACHS. As usual, "Master of Ceremonies," Ted Axton, did a fine job keeping things moving along and Ann Kakacek did a great job as commentator.

Congratulations, Shelley, I will always remember your beautiful smile. Have a fun and exciting year as Miss Antioch. I am sure you will be a fine representative of our "Hometown."

Little Miss Antioch

We also have a new "Little Miss Antioch" to represent our town, eight-year-old Mandi Clark. There innocent reply was "becoming Little Miss Antioch, because I would get to wear the crown!"

The next question had something to do with housework and the comical response was "my mom can do the housework because she has nothing else to do!" I would like to ask that same question of this litter person in about 20 years when she becomes a mom. For some reason I think she will see things differently. How precious! When the girls came out in their party dresses, each and everyone looked beautiful. The parents really out did themselves in coordinating these outfits. Once again, the MC, Ted Axton, kept things moving along.

The winner was announced about two hours into the program and all of

Letter to the Editor

Thanks Antioch

Editor:

I would like to thank the town of Antioch for a fine Fourth of July celebration. From the start of the parade to the last burst of fireworks, it was a thoroughly enjoyable day. The music was a pleasure and so were the dancers!

With the large turnout in the evening the Antioch Police are to be congratulated on the smooth and careful way the traffic was handled. The fireworks were great and thoroughly enjoyed. We all had a good time, didn't we? Thanks Antioch!

Antioch Twn. man, 82, dies from fall

An 82-year-old Antioch Township man died from injuries suffered when he fell down the stairs at his apartment complex last week, the Lake County Sheriff's Office reported.

Walter Lucansky of 41966 N. Rte. 45 was pronounced dead after the accident, which occurred shortly before 9 a.m. Friday, July 12.

According to the sheriff's office and Lake County Coroner's Office, Lucansky died from fatal injuries in the fall down a flight of stairs, which were covered with heavy carpeting.

Proposed '91-92 budget up 3%, tops $5 million

The Village of Antioch is proposing a $5,061 million budget for 1991-92, up $1.5 million from the previous year.

However, most of that increase stems from a $1.2 million bond for the extension of Orchard Street.

Excluding the costs to bond the Orchard Street extension, this year's budget is up by about 3 percent, the Village says.

The budget is available for inspection by the public at Village Hall during regular business hours. A hearing has been scheduled prior to next week's regular Village Board meeting, at which time the budget will come up for a final consideration.

Among the larger increases: public works salaries, up $55,350; improvements to parks, up $27,200; police department salaries, up $98,104; 9-1-1 equipment, up $66,183; a roof, sign and generator for the fire safety building, $50,000; and stop and go lights, $120,000.

The larger decreases to budgeted expenses over last year include: the Tax Increment Finance Fund, $158,950; revenue sharing, $26,000; and construction costs to the new sewer plant, which decreased by $160,000.

"The Chamber supports all of Antioch's businesses," says Roger Sorensen, Antioch Chamber of Commerce president. "This was a new way to support some very important businesses in the Village that don't normally participate in Maxwell Street Days."

Food is not all Maxwell Street Days will showcase in addition to the sales offered by Village merchants. DiMarco says the entertainment lined up for the weekend "rivals any big city."

Pony rides, a petting zoo, a dunking tank, Bingo and a Moonwalk will be some of the activities while music and dancing will feature rhythm & blues, Top 40, country, rock, show tunes, 50s-60s music and magic.

The Chicago Honey Bear Dancers will perform at 6 p.m. Friday night, Marty X and the "Rock & Roll Kitchen Revue" from Los Angeles will play from 3 to 5 p.m. and "Frankly Female" performers Jane Miles and Bonnie Dolter will make their premiere at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

All entertainment is being offered free of charge in the north parking lot behind Ben Franklin.

"If there are finer ways to spend a July weekend," says Antioch Mayor Robert Wilton, "I honestly don't know what they may be — or where."

residents and commissioners alike.

"I cannot support a development with postage stamp lots," stated commissioner Carol Carstenson, reaping resounding applause from the audience.

"I had no idea of this intense development," said commissioner Anderson, echoing the general opinion of the audience.

Concerns over the proposed development continued with discussion of wells and sewage removal. While Antioch Village is not responsible for the water supply east of Deep Lake Rd., residents in attendance voiced their concern for their individual wells after discovering that the development would use an estimated 200,000 gallons of water a day.

The method of sewage disposal for the development was proposed as a spray irrigation system. Spray irrigation is an effective alternative sewage system that utilizes lift-stations, a holding pond and land irrigation to dispose of sewage.

For the proposed golf course development, an 18-acre lagoon would serve as the holding area for the sewage, while the irrigation would occur over acreage decided or dedicated to the Village. The system as proposed would be managed by the Village of Antioch, although Martin stated that private control was not out of the question.

Martin concurred with one commissioner who asked if—according to the presented concept—there was no golf course there could be no system and no development.

Audience comments on the proposed golf course development were generally negative on the development. Citing slow growth in lieu of no growth, members of the audience stated that the development would be too large on too little land suitable for building.

"You do have in your sub area plan a very intense amount of development proposed for Rts. 45 and 173 with commercial and office development," said Martin.

Mrs. Doolittle, owner of the property immediately west of Rte. 45 and south of Rte. 173 later rebutted, "I can tell you that the land you mentioned on Rte. 45 is mine, and I'll never sell it for commercial use."

While the proposal was not well received by residents, the Planning Commission ended the presentation by offering guidance as to how Anest and Jen Land Design should proceed before making another presentation.

Later, a Home Builders Assn. of Lake County member stated that the reaction was not unusual for developments in the concept stage. In fact, the concept stage of a proposed development is usually a time to get a "feel" of a project's acceptance and then revise it as necessary.

Jen Land Design, highly regarded land planners in the home industry, has designed several successful communities in Long Grove and Barrington that utilize a spray irrigation sewage system.

Tag Day benefit

The Antioch Woman's Club will be collecting donations for the American Cancer Society on Friday and Saturday during the annual Tag Day.

Club members will be stationed throughout the Village.

Taste-y music this weekend

Antioch has lots of great entertainment for the Maxwell Street/Taste of Antioch festival, but what could be more appropriate than a singing chef?

Straight from — where else? — Los Angeles comes "The Rock & Roll Kitchen Revue," starring Marty X, the Rock & Roll Chef.

Marty and his eight-piece band will perform their unique tribute to music and food from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday.

Classic songs like "Tequila," "I Want Candy," "Brown Sugar," "Peppermint Twist," "Stir it Up," and "Bad to the Bone," among others, will be performed by the band.

Also featured with the "The Rock & Roll Kitchen Revue" will be the four-piece "Rex Horns," who are just coming off a show with their band Rex at Summerfest in Milwaukee.

"The Rock & Roll Kitchen Revue" is an offshoot of "The Rock & Roll Kitchen," a Los Angeles cable program hosted by Marty X.

Marty X's credits in the culinary arts include being chef at prominent restaurants and catering companies. His musical credits include playing guitar with Firefall and the Pure Prairie League.

Admission is free. See "The Rock & Roll Revue" under the water tower next to Toft Street.

Roney Farm project to trigger area growth

by BILL SCHROEDER
Lakeland Newspapers

As they study plans for the proposed Roney Farm development on Gilmer Rd., Wauconda officials are pondering the regional impact of 850 new dwelling units and the construction of a daily fee golf course.

A public hearing on concept plan approval brought out the fact that the proposed land application sewage treatment facility has been positioned to serve adjacent areas.

In discussing the project, Greg Hummel, a principal of C & H Development Co., Arlington Heights, referred to the 450 acre on Gilmer Rd. west of Fairfield Rd. as the "gate way to the north and west."

The Roney Farm's strategic location and its position as a "trigger" for further area development hasn't been lost on Wauconda officials.

Trustee W. Chris Weiler made a special effort at the concept hearing to pinpoint the Roney Farm on a large map and its adjacency to Lakemoor and Round Lake Park, two neighboring municipalities with aggressive growth policies.

Not to be overlooked are Fox Lake and Round Lake, two other villages which could "reach" Roney Farm with some creative boundary changing. Fox Lake is at Rtes. 12 and 134 already and has advanced southward along the four-lane highway. The sprawling Baxter Laboratories plant nearby at Wilson Rd. and Rte. 120 already is within the corporate boundaries.

Mike Prate, prominent Wauconda businessman and a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, pointedly exclaimed at the hearing, "The development is going to go, but will it go elsewhere? Are we going to let it go elsewhere?"

Hummel applauded Prate's question, admitting that he has had some preliminary discussions with neighboring villages without naming them. "Our style is not to use leverage. We want to come here (Wauconda)," he emphasized.

Ted Kipp, a member of the Wauconda Planning Commission, commented that the development will impact on Wauconda whether it is annexed or not. "We have to control the development. We might as well get the benefit," Kipp remarked.

Jim Schmuck, a long-time merchant and director of Wauconda National Bank, told officials and citizens attending the meeting that further residential growth is vital to Wauconda's commercial viability "because the retail pie is getting smaller."

Lou Mercieri, president of the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce, said the village would be "foolish to get Roney Farm get away."

Richard Breeden, owner of nearby Wauconda Orchards, said that he supports the concept. "It's a fine development," Breeden said he would make a portion of his property available to "set up a corridor for annexation."

Public hearings will be necessary on the plan, probably as a planned unit development (PUD), and the annexation before final action is taken.

County sees 6 traffic fatalities in June

Captain George P. Hornyan, Dist. Commander, State Police Elgin, announced the latest provisional figures which indicate that during the month of June 1991, 142 persons died from injuries sustained from traffic accidents on Illinois streets and highways.

State Police, Dist. Two, which covers Lake, McHenry, DeKalb, Kane and DuPage Counties, reports 85 persons have been killed in these counties since Jan. 1, 1991. 70 persons were also killed during the same period in 1990 in these counties.

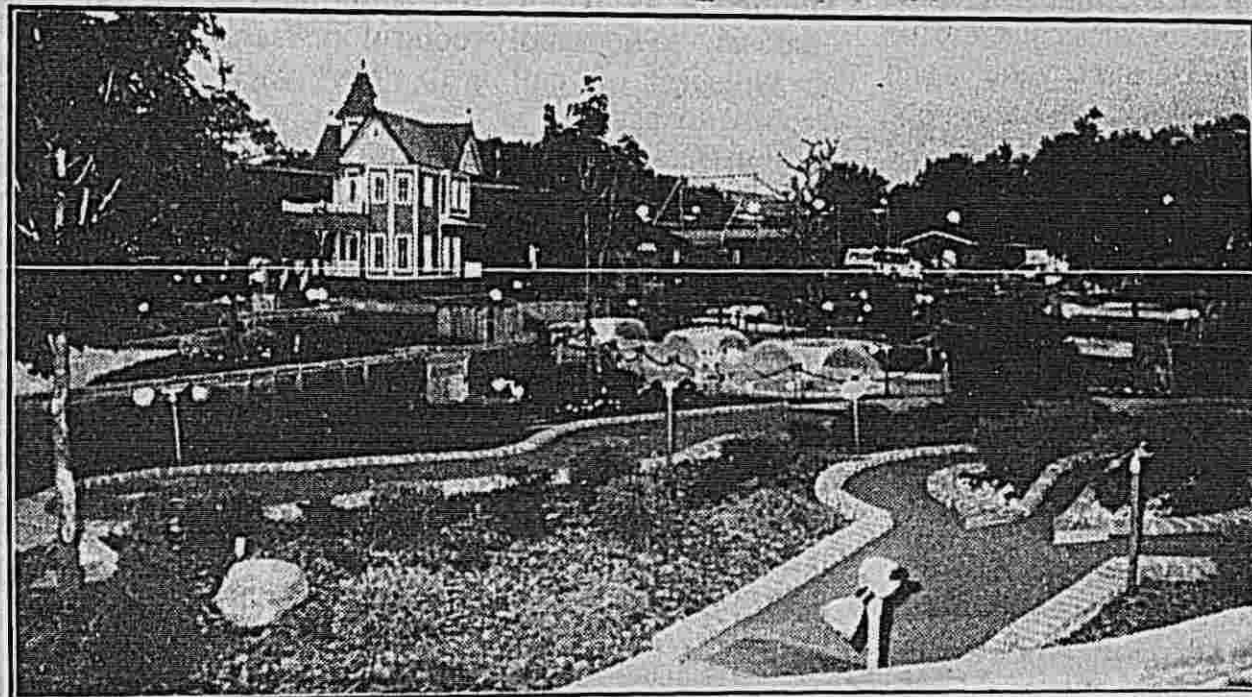

A breakdown of the counties for statistics in June 1991 shows Lake County, six fatalities; McHenry County had three fatalities; DuPage County had three fatalities; Kane County and had three fatalities and DeKalb County had one fatality.

As a comparison for June 1990, Lake County had four fatalities, McHenry County had one fatality; DuPage County had four fatalities; Kane County had three fatalities; and DeKalb County had two fatalities.

There have been 659 persons killed in the entire state in 1991. There were 719 persons killed in the same time period of 1990 showing a decrease of 60.

Glossing over schools

Last week on two successive nights, developers painted glowing pictures in Wauconda for homes and a golf course for the historic Roney Farm and transformation of Holiday Park in the Fox Lake area of a former ski hill and picnic grove into a resort and convention center surrounded by cluster homes.

The land promoters spoke almost from the same script, stressing the positive impact on the local tax base, how the development will enhance local business, their sensitivity for the environment and their concern for "good planning."

Developers covered all the bases, to be sure, with one glaring exception—impact of growth on the schools and education taxes. The subject never came up at the Wauconda meeting and was touched on only briefly in Fox Lake where the developer mentioned off-handedly that the Holiday Park project "will improve school financing."

Plans for Roney Farm are complicated by the fact that the project lies in three school districts, Wauconda Unit, Fremont Consolidated and Mundelein High School. Holiday Park developers asked for $7 million in tax increment fund (TIF) financing aid to make their project fly. Since TIF's amount to a freeze on taxes, it's difficult to see how the project "will improve school financing."

In evaluating proposed developments, village officials rightly should be concerned about such things as infrastructure requirements, zoning, planning, traffic impact, and so forth. Both developers and elected officials, though, are selling taxpayers short by not being upfront about what's in store for schools and taxation.

At groundbreaking time, providing for schools can be a big headache. But it's only a minor migraine compared to the whopping educational tax headache that's passed on to property owners who have to deal with the increased costs of growth and development the rest of their lives.

Bare is beautiful

Editor:

After reading several articles in various publications on the issue of thong bathing suits and even being approached by Ms. Hodgins myself, I feel it's time for the opinions of others to be heard. Ms. Hodgins' primary concern seems to be with the effect that exposure to this suit will have on our children.

As a wife, mother, and resident of Round Lake Beach, all I can say is I'm sorry, but with guns being found in our town's schools, drug deals going down in our parks and budget cuts eliminating school programs and activities, I find it difficult to give this issue the time of day.

As a parent, it is my responsibility to inform and educate my child. I don't want my son to be ashamed of the body he was born with. I'm trying to raise my son to have a healthy appreciation and respect for the natural beauty of the human body. If today's youth are harmed or demoralized in some way by a bare buttock, then perhaps, we as adults, should rethink what we've taught our children.

On a personal note, I never have and never will own or wear a thong. However, I feel better knowing that the decision not to wear one was made by choice.

Public be damned

Editor:

Robert Depke, Chairman of the Lake County Board, expressed outrage at what he considers an attack on his integrity by the Board of Health because of its efforts to retain the services of Dr. Potsic as its head.

Yet what does he consider the recent hearings on the policies and operations of the Dept. of Health—whose only crime proved to be the unremitting enforcement of the regulations which over the years have served so well to protect the health and safety of Lake County residents—was not the integrity of the Health Dept. put on public trial by the Lake County Board?

The most opposition and the greatest number of complaints came from members of the restaurant, tavern, and construction industries, united in their objection to the strict enforcement of the high standards maintained by the Dept. of Health for the proper handling of food and beverages and for the disposal of sewage via septic systems.

Behold the result: Caveat against conflicts of interest notwithstanding, the Lake County Board has decided in favor of business by appointing to the newly expanded Board of Health (five of whose 12 members have just now been appointed by the Lake County Board) representatives from the very industries subject to the policies and procedures on which the health and safety of us Lake County residents depend.

One dissenting Lake County Board member, Larry Leafblad, described this bold betrayal of the public interest as "putting the fox in charge of the chickens." The public be damned!

If we value our health and safety, Lake County residents need to lend support to the Health Dept. and Dr. Potsic in their effort to keep control of their department.

Keeping flags safe

Editor:

Since Jan. 17, the American Legion Post 867 of Mundelein in conjunction with the Village of Mundelein has flown 36 American flags at the War Memorial at the intersection of Hawley St. and Rte. 176. There was a flag flying for each person from Mundelein who was serving in the Persian Gulf during Operation Desert Shield/Operation Desert Storm.

When the person returned home, their flag was taken down and given to them at a special presentation. We still had nine flags to present, five of which belonged to personnel who have arrived back in the states but have not yet returned to Mundelein. The remaining four were for personnel who are still stationed in the Persian Gulf.

With the cooperation of many, things were running smoothly. The routine was interrupted, however, sometime on June 15 or 16 when one of the flags "disappeared", pole and all. This brought tears to the eyes of many to think this would happen. Fearing that the same thing might happen to the remaining eight flags, they have been removed for safe keeping so they can be presented to the military personnel for whom they were flown.

If anyone knows the whereabouts of "his" flag, please return it to the spot from which it was removed. We feel this was probably done as a prank and hopefully we will see the flag returned so it can be presented to the military personnel for whom it was flying when he returns (Continued on next page)

Roscoe's future awaiting space in dog shelter

BY BILL SCHROEDER

At any given moment there are scores of stray animals—pets and wildlife—roaming Lake County highways and byways. The strays constitute a sizeable handling, health and safety problem.

For the first six months of 1991, Lake County Animal Control officers picked up 538 cats and 741 dogs. This time of year Chief Control Officer Len Hackl reported that pick ups of 100 animals per week including wildlife is not unusual. Summer always is busier than winter with woodchucks, those bristly brown burrowers, being the most predominant wildlife pick-up this time of year.

Stray dogs are held at the county's temporary shelter at Lakewood Forest Preserve, Wauconda, for five days. Stray cats are held three days. The strays are turned over to the Orphans of the Storm Shelter at Deerfield for adoption or disposal. The kindly control officers always speak of "putting to sleep" when referring to disposal.

Chief Hackl, an animal control officer since 1973, heads a 10-person team made up of two kennel attendants, a radio dispatcher, five wardens and an assistant. The services of the county veterinarian are available to them. They cover all unincorporated portions of the county plus villages that don't contract for animal wardens. Including the activity of the village wardens creates a mind-boggling amount of strays in a county with more than 500,000 population.

The enormous stray animal problem has been on my mind since pondering what to do with a friendly, bandy-legged mostly terrier-type dog who has taken up temporary residence while we attempt to locate his owner.

The little guy of senior citizen status originally was dumped at a church where he waited four hours for his owners to return. A kindly woman who already has three dogs took pity on him and brought him home before having second thoughts about another canine resident. That's when daughter Jill and her husband came upon the bright-eyed, well-mannered waif who has an ingratiating manner of cocking his head in knowing fashion when you speak to him.

Roscoe, as we decided to call him, wore a choaker chain, was well fed and had long nails, indicating that he spent most of his time indoors. The best guess at a family conference was that someone from the city just got tired of Roscoe and took him for a ride. Chief Hackl corrected me about one thing. Pet dumping, by and large, originates within the county.

Normally, Roscoe will be facing a humane sleeping injection unless a spot can be found for him in a "no kill" shelter where unadoptable dogs are cared for the remainder of their natural lives. These homes are few and have long waiting lists.

Roscoe is in excellent health for his age estimated at eight to 10 by a vet. He would make an excellent pet for a senior citizen who would enjoy the companionship of a small tan dog whose only bad habit is whimpering when he gets lonesome.

NICE LETTER—I was pleased and surprised to receive a nice letter from Arthur J. Bergstrom, former Libertyville High coach, who extended compliments on a special section published by Lakeland Newspapers to commemorate Libertyville's Final Four accomplishments last spring.

I'm happy to report that Coach Bergstrom is enjoying retirement in Laguna Hills, Calif. After leaving Libertyville, he coached football briefly at Decatur High and then took up the gridiron reins at Bradley University. Then he became executive secretary of the NCAA and held that post until retiring.

Coach observed that the Illinois prep basketball tournament is the nation's best. (No argument from me). He said Coach Sanders and his Wildcat players are deserving of all the accolades bestowed upon them.

Dear Bill:

Why so many Viewpoints on the Chicago Cubs? You should know that many White Sox fans are offended by all that swill. We now have some media respect. The Sox will outdraw the Cubs by 500,000 to one million fans this year.

Check the sports stores and you'll find Sox articles outsell Cub stuff two to one! My friend at St. Joseph grammar school in Libertyville reports eighth graders wearing more White Sox clothes compared to Cub items.

Cut out all of that Cub stuff. Leave your Cub hat at home. We are not interested.

Phil Pospychala
Libertyville

Dear Phil:

After watching the Cubbies blow a 6-1 lead to the Cardinals and lose another heartbreaker just before the All-Star break, I threw away my Cub cap and put on a hard hat. We're going to need all the protection we can get the rest of the season. I thought White Sox fans enjoy watching Cub lovers run for cover. By the way, Phil, if the Cubs had a manager like Jeff Torborg, they could start ordering World Series tickets right now.

STRESS RECIPE—Tim Rafferty, a Grayslake merchant, president of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the village board, offers a recipe on how to deal with every day problems like taxes, growth, impact fees, referendums, tax revolts, newspapers (that caught my attention), politics and wanna-be-politicians.

"Give yourselves a break. Gather your family, friends and neighbors and get over to the park. Grab a beer, kick your shoes off, dance, lay back, relax, mellow out, take a chill pill...whatever it takes. Lighten up." Rafferty was referring to a shindig in his home town, but the advice could apply in any community. Interesting thoughts, all right. Where do you get chill pills?

Politically Speaking

by JOSEPH SOULAK

Lakeland Newspapers

CUBA CANDIDATES—Another hat is about to be thrown into the election ring. This time it's in Dist. 17 in the far southwest corner of Lake County. C. Richard Anderson, immediate past president of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist., is the incumbent.

With the hope that Anderson may not run next spring, at least two others are ready to do so.

Most prominently mentioned is Barrington dentist Paul Chung. He ran for county clerk two years ago against Democrat Linda Hess. More conservative than a lot of conservatives, Chung attracted a wide following. But he's still a dentist with a taste for politics.

If he won't do it, Nancy Masterson will. The Cuba Twp. GOP party chairman beat out township Supv. Wayne Miller for a committeeman's job two years ago.

This is one race where there is no shortage of candidates.

NOT MOVING—Lindenhurst almost lost one of its better known residents. Robert Warrender was planning to build a new lakefront home outside of Salem, across the state line.

For several years Warrender has been a thorn in the side of Lindenhurst officials like retired Mayor Robert Ratch and others in village hall. He even got Village Atty. Paul Phillips to resign as Millburn school board president.

It all started when the Lindenhurst building inspector put his stamp of approval on a new home Warrender found full of defects.

"The home was inhabitable (after being purchased in December 1987) and we instituted litigation against the developer," Warrender said. The suit was settled prior to trial in April. It allowed the Warrenders to keep their Lindenhurst home. Property the Warrenders hoped to build on in Salem was subsequently placed for sale and sold July 10.

Ironically, this is the same date as a scheduled Kenosha County zoning hearing to grant the Warrenders a variance for a garage on the Salem property.

Friends and followers of Warrender are glad. They want him to keep the politicians on their toes. His next target: the Lindenhurst Park Dist.

"I can't move," Warrender said, "I've got too many unfinished agenda items in Lindenhurst."

HILL OF GOLD—There's gold in them thar' hills, said miners heading west in the 1800s. There's still gold to be found in the hills of 1991, according to Mundelein Trustee Ralph Rohling.

One of them is the towering A.R.F. landfill on Rte. 83 outside Grayslake.

That pile operated as the A.R.R. Landfill, has just been sold to USA Waste Services Inc. for 4.5 million shares of stock worth $57.4 million. A.R.F., whose only landfill is in Grayslake, had pretax earnings of more than $3 million on revenue of about $6.9 million last year. "That's a 43.5 percent profit," Rohling said. "Who said landfills don't attract flies?"

The big mogul of USA Waste, Earl E. DeFrates, said the Grayslake landfill has "plenty of room to grow."

"Bill Becker and Jeanne Becker, the pundits of the Lake County Solid Waste Agency, have been telling us A.R.F. will close in two years," Rohling said. "Who is kidding whom?"

CREDIT CARD OUTING—This year's Illinois Municipal League convention will again be held in Chicago the weekend of Oct. 11 to 14.

It is an opportunity for elected officials to fraternize, meet other movers and shakers, learn something and let down their hair. Best of all, it's a junket at village expense.

Round Lake Beach is doing something about the cost this year worth considering by other villages.

Everyone attending will pay their own way—cash, credit card, etc.—for later reimbursement by the village. No upfront cash advance.

"The past two years we have had someone leave a day early and the village got stuck with the hotel cost," Mayor Carl Schrimpf said. At the Chicago Hilton that's not cheap. Worse yet is the person who signs up and may not attend at all.

THONG AFFAIR—Doe Hodgins is stirring it up in Round Lake Beach. She led a petition drive that gathered more than 1,000 signatures to ban thongs at the village beach.

She feels proper attire, as required by a sign on the beach bathhouse, "should be defined as covering the breasts, pelvis and buttocks." Thongs don't do the job. G-string suits leave little to the imagination.

Hodgins, who admits to wearing two-piece bathing suits, got her dander up when a thong wearer at the beach wouldn't cover up.

She's gotten lots of media coverage. So has the village of Round Lake Beach. "Two or three callers a week must think we have nothing else to do or talk about here," Mayor Carl Schrimpf said.

But it got a little too warm in the Hodgins kitchen. Last week this overnight celebrity had her telephone number unlisted. She blamed the media.

PRESS RELEASE PARTY—Lake County GOP faithful flocked to the new Republican headquarters opening last week in Libertyville. It is on Rte. 173 next to the state driver's test station.

Just as many notables were there as not there.

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) of the 31st Dist. sent regrets. So did George Ryan, the secretary of state who controls the license examining center next door.

They were in Springfield working on the state budget impasse.

State Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa), Lake County party chairman, had this to say about the new center: "All good Republicans in Lake County now have a place to call home."

Party co-chairman, state Rep. William Peterson (R-Prairie View) said: "This location will certainly bring more activity to party efforts."

These two attending only by press release. They were with their colleagues in Springfield. And according to the newspapers, they're still there. So delaying the opening a week or two wouldn't have changed the faces.

PASS ALONG—When potatoes get too hot to handle, just pass them along. That's what the good politicians of Grant Twp. have done.

They received a petition from 30-plus residents on Stanton Point Rd. in Ingle-side. It was about the traffic, speeding cars and loud music from Juke Box Saturday Night, a popular young adults night club.

"We're not going to take it any more," one homeowner said. "That's that and this is it."

The petition asking for some peace and quiet was given to Grant Twp. Supv. Alberta "Bertie" Miller. She passed it along to 4th Dist. Supv. Charlotte Kiesgen of Fox Lake.

Kiesgen took it to Waukegan and County Board Chairman Robert Depke. The man who also doubles as liquor commissioner speculated the Jukebox had more business than it could reasonably handle.

Maybe price is right

Editor:

I felt I must respond to Trustee Alberta Meyer's innuendoes concerning conflict of interest in my positions as Planning/Zoning Board member and fund raising chairman for the Community Center.

I have been a member of the Planning/Zoning since 1987, years before Jim was elected to trustee. I was also appointed Community Center fund raiser several months before Jim was elected. At the time of his appointment to the Community Center committee, I asked Jim to call the mayor and inform him that I would step down from my position as fund raiser if he felt there was any conflict of interest. The mayor assured us this was not a problem.

As for my backing Bill Dam's petition to put the full time mayor's position on a referendum so that the residents of Fox Lake can vote on it, I am not backing this out of friendship for Bill Dam. If he hadn't started the petitions, I would have! I happen to feel the people of Fox Lake have the right to be involved in a decision of this magnitude that will effect all of us. Perhaps, you are afraid if it goes on a referendum it will be voted down? Maybe that $48,000 looks good to you Meyer?

New use for old station

Editor:

This is about a use for the old police station in Wauconda. How about using it for a meeting and exhibit hall for the performing arts? We could use the upstairs for an exhibition area for local paintings, photos of the actors, dancers, etc., an area for a speakers club, and a stage area for plays. Downstairs could be used as a rehearsal hall, a place for artists to work, give classes to youth, senior citizens (in crafts and painting). And this would still give the village full access to the well and pump.

Must monitor leaders

Editor:

I am greatly dismayed at the general tone of the letters regarding the formation of a taxpayers watchdog group in Grayslake. This country was born of a war that in part was over taxes that the people felt were oppressive. This country was built around the premise of the effective interaction of government and those governed. When we the governed allow government to proceed in a manner that we deem incorrect, and do no protest, we the governed are wrong. It is our responsibility to step up and make our feelings known. How else are our leaders to know the desires and priorities of the people they supposedly represent?

Some would say that our leaders know more about the various situations than we do and we should get out of their way and let them do their job. If we follow that tack we throw accountability out the window except for those years during which elections occur and then we vote in a new bunch of "rascals". This is totally intolerable and irresponsible in this fast-paced society.

We must constantly monitor our leaders and officials to determine the direction they are going to make certain they are going where we want them to go. We must demand to be kept informed and when we are not we must become informed by any responsible means available to us. To that end the formation of a taxpayers "watchdog" group to monitor the financial and fiscal responsibility of various governmental bodies seems quite appropriate.

Had Tom Kruger called for a meeting of concerned taxpayers several weeks ago, I am not certain how many people would have attended ... if any! Since former Mayor Schroeder was the one to call the meeting there was some attendant notoriety and it provided a forum for the public to hear from officials and to present their views. The outcome was the formation of a committee of concerned citizens with diverse backgrounds to review and keep track of the finances and agendas of the various taxing bodies.

It is too bad that Mr. Bartik decided not to become part of the committee to help us maintain impartiality. Even the Supreme Court allows for dissenting opinions, but at least those opinions were determined from the information obtained from having been part of the process.

Area state parks lead the way with recycling

The Conservation Dept. is launching a major program to encourage campers, boaters, picnickers and other visitors at state-managed recreation areas to recycle aluminum, glass and plastic, Dir. Brent Manning said.

By July 1, the department plans to have 151 specially constructed recycling sheds installed at about 65 major parks and recreation areas that are used extensively by campers, picnickers and boaters. The sheds will be located in campgrounds, day-use areas or near boat launch facilities for the convenience of park users. Parks and recreation areas that do not have recycling centers will be supplied with special recycling bags that visitors can use to carry recyclable wastes when they leave.

Manning said the department is initiating its recycling program as a convenience for park users and to help educate the public about recycling.

Manning said the department is initiating its recycling program as a convenience for park users and to help educate the public about recycling.

At Chain O'Lakes State Park, where recycling stations have been provided since 1989, park personnel have collected 1,153 lbs. of aluminum, 5,549 lbs. of glass, 6,700 lbs. of paper, 2,300 lbs. of cardboard and 250 gallons of used motor oil. The sale of those materials generated about $345, according to Ed Rodick, site superintendent at the park.

However, while proceeds from the recycling effort were minimal, Rodick figures the park saved a significant amount of money by reducing the volume of trash it sent to local landfills.

Rodick's recycling program at Chain O'Lakes State Park was the prototype on which the Conservation Dept. based its plans for the statewide program.

The wooden recycling stations built by department workers are based on a design used by the National Park Service. Individual members of the Ill. Coal Assn. donated the bulk of the more than 500, 55-gallon drums needed to get the program underway.

Concessionaires at department-managed recreation sites have made arrangements to recycle aluminum soft drink cans, cardboard from the boxes in which merchandise is shipped and other materials.

Last year, the department secured a $76,000 Dept. of Energy and Natural Resources grant to launch a pilot program using a substitute wood product created from recycled plastics to construct picnic tables, fishing piers and other structures. Facilities constructed with the new products are in use at Ill. Beach State Park at Zion, Sangchris State Park near Springfield, and the Conservation World exhibit area on the Ill. State Fairgrounds, Springfield.

Whole lot of Countryside at new Comiskey

by GREG MILLER
Lakeland Newspapers

They've definitely gone from the bush leagues to the bigs.

Bob Adelizzi Sr. and his two sons, Bob Jr. and Bill, hit a home run with the contract to beautify the exterior of new Comiskey Park, but it was just another notch on the bat for their heavy-hitting landscape architecture and contracting firm.

With the help of major jobs like Comiskey, the Adelizzi's Wauconda-based Countryside Industries Inc. has hit the big time after fairly humble beginnings.

Comiskey II

Back in the mid-1970's, Bob Sr. was trying to provide for a wife and five kids on the meager salary generated by his duties as a science and physical education teacher at a Niles junior high.

A combination of factors — money, an industrious nature and a green thumb — led Bob Sr. to start Countryside Landscaping in 1975.

"I'd always had an interest in plants since I was a kid," Bob Sr. said. "I planted my first garden when I was 10. It was right after World War II, and they called them victory gardens."

The business operated out of a site on Rand Road in Palatine until 18 months ago, when a new building and grounds were occupied on Rte. 12 north of Bonner Road.

As a credit to the company's versatility, the name was changed from Countryside Landscaping to Countryside Industries Inc.

"Because of our diversity — we do things way beyond what a typical landscaper does — we changed the name," Bob Sr. explained.

That diversity includes a wide range of services available for both commercial and residential work.

With two architects on staff, Countryside specializes in a design/build concept.

"A guy buys a new home, but he doesn't have time for the landscaping," Bob Sr. offered. "We'll do the paving, the deck, the patio, the pool, the lighting, the yard..."

"Our residential division is at the high end of residential landscaping."

The company is very visible on the commercial side. Feathers in the cap include the Delta Airlines terminal (inside and out) at O'Hare, Lincoln Park Zoo projects, a waterfall at the entrance to the Lincoln Commerce Center in Mundelein and lots of highway work.

"A lot of the highway work people drive by every day," Bob Sr. said.

Comiskey offered a special challenge.

"The Chicago White Sox have a rich baseball heritage, with great players like Shoeless Joe Jackson and Minnie Minoso," Bob Sr. said. "We're proud to be a part of that history, and in our own way, we are helping to continue the tradition."

Going with the Sox's old-fashioned flavor, Countryside chose to install common trees and shrubs. Nearly 1,000 burning bush, 40 ash trees and 41 Austrian pines were planted near the entrance, ticket gates and parking lots.

There was also a method to the mulch.

"We planted vegetation that not only looks nice, but also can withstand the abuse of rowdy baseball fans," Bob Sr. said. "These plants are durable and retain their attractiveness throughout the baseball season, which — we hope — will last well into October."

The ball park job had to be done within the tight constraints of the area and around the debris left by other contractors. Landscaping was completed in stages to accommodate the different construction phases in the stadium.

"We started real early in the year," said Bill, who's a vice president and controller.

Bob Sr. and Bill Adelizzi

Bob Jr. is the vice president in charge of production.

"We brought sod in from Indiana, because the sod grown in Illinois and Wisconsin wouldn't be ready for cutting for another two or three weeks," Bob Jr. added.

"We wanted to cover all the bases," Bob Sr. said. "So our crews began working as far back as March, 1990 — just in case someone threw us a curve."

The company was just thrown another fat pitch — the contract for a big project at the new U.S. Postal Service Mail-Processing Center in Palatine.

The motto, "We're growing," is a fitting double entendre. Countryside did $400,000 worth of business its first year and attracted $4 million last year. The employee list has quintupled to 63.

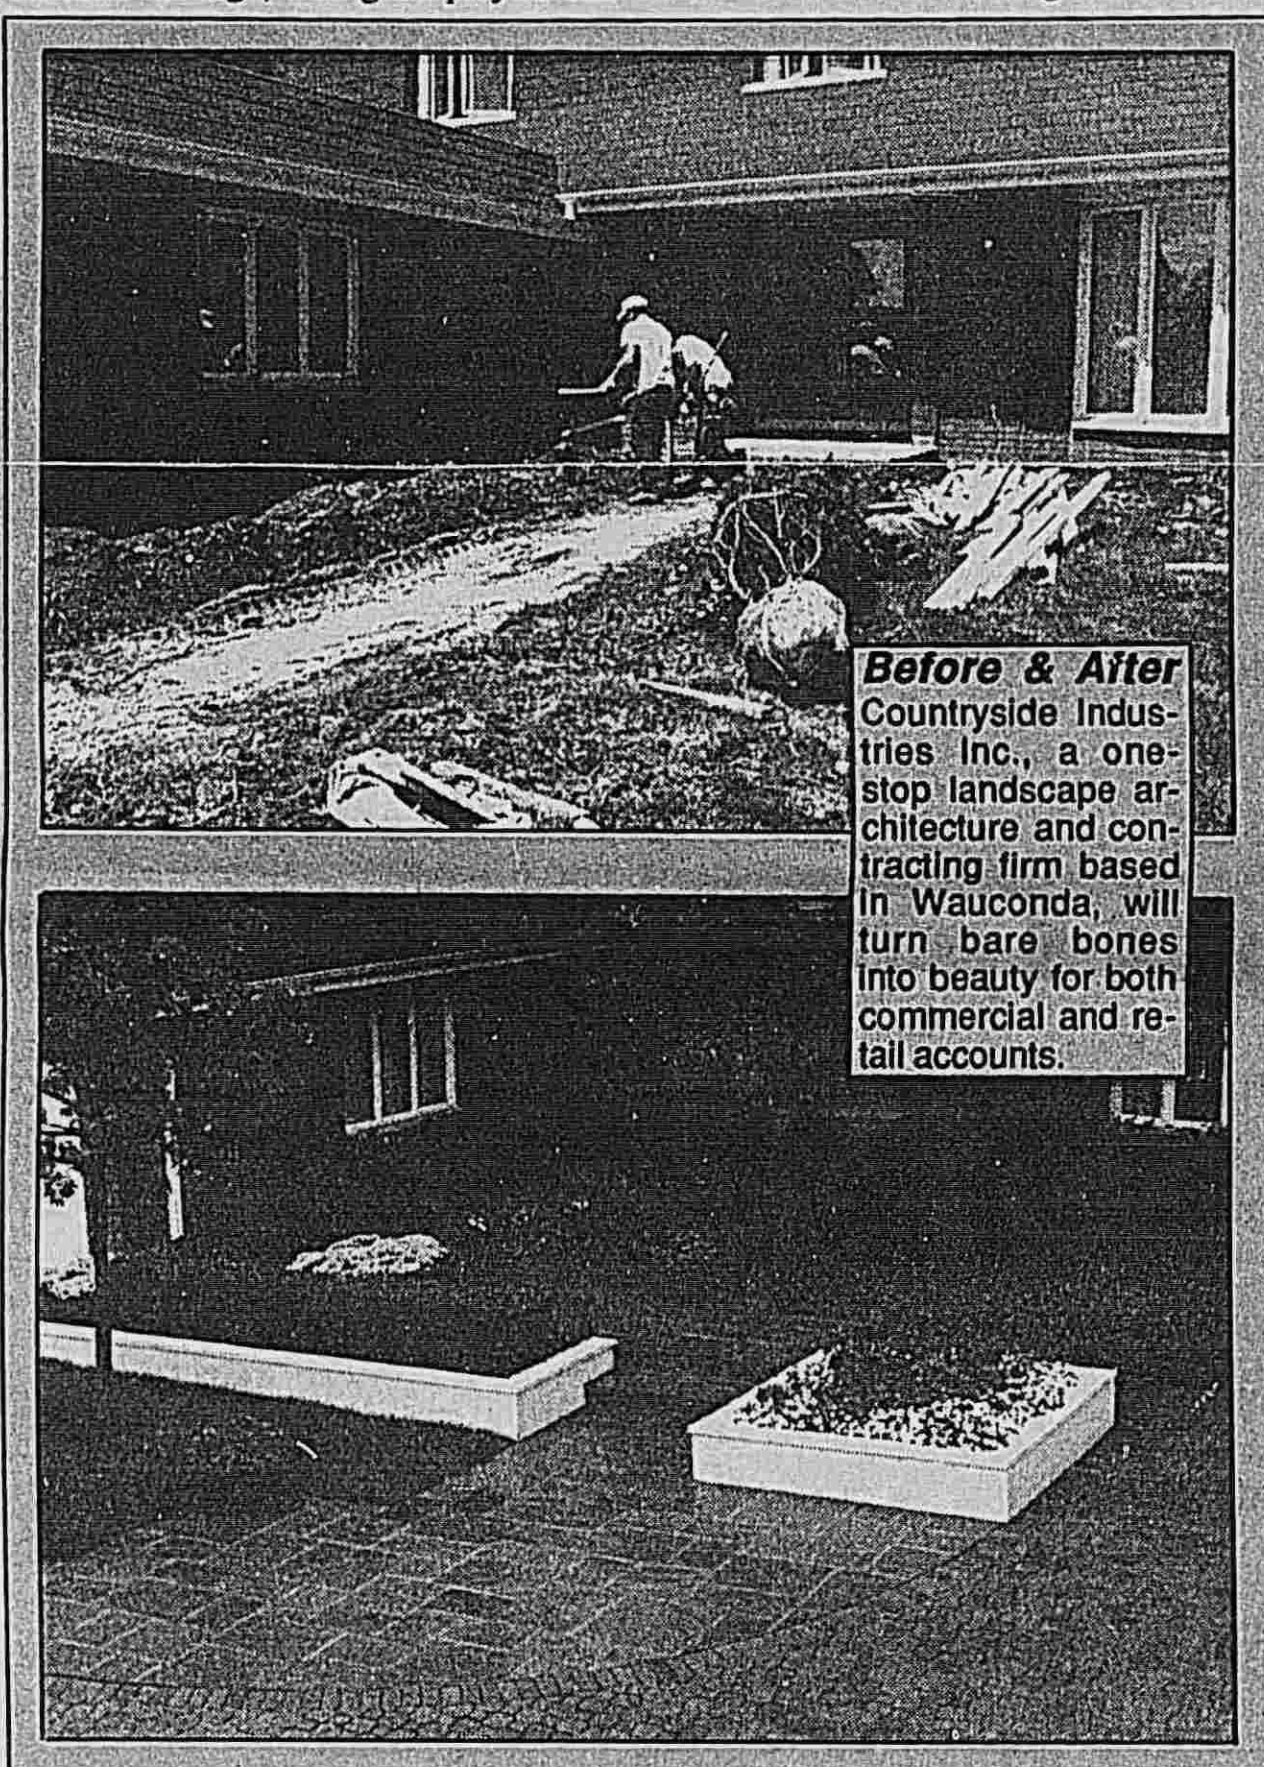

Accolades have followed the growth. Countryside has picked up 17 awards from The Illinois Landscape Contractors Association and The Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago in the last three years.

While recognition among its peers is no problem, Countryside is seeking broader exposure to the public.

"It's hard to get people to know we here — that we exist," Bob Sr. said.

"We're very quality oriented. 'The customer is always right' is our type of philosophy."

What if your business partner doesn't die

by NICK J. BROWN

Business ownership can be a blessing and an opportunity. The death or disability of a co-shareholder or a partner can bring potential protracted, lengthy and expensive litigation. The growth of a business requires many hours of hard work, and some luck. However, it can produce a valuable asset for both the owner, his family and his heirs.

The real problem and loss to the surviving shareholder may occur at that time when ownership transition of a family corporation or a partnership takes place, due to the death or disability of your co-partner or co-shareholder.

Death is easy, at least for the survivor! Usually, if a co-shareholder or partner should die, a proper plan of business transition is funded with stock redemption or partnership redemption life insurance. That life insurance is either paid to the company to buy the ownership interest from the deceased spouse or heirs, or the monies are passed directly between shareholders or partners to accomplish the same end.

This way to wealth

This is the clean, easy and good for both parties because the survivor has the cash he needs to buy out the interest of the deceased and the deceased's family has what they need, which is immediate cash and a continuing income where formerly a salary existed. And if this is all put in place and done properly, the business can go on smoothly without the hitch of being tied up by a lawsuit from unhappy heirs.

The real problem can occur when one of the owners of a business is disabled. In this event, there is a continuing need for income to him and his family and the ominous problem exists that if the buy out agreement does not provide for disability, both the healthy and the disabled owner may have serious financial problems.

Disability incurs many liabilities both for the disabled owner and his partner. For the disabled owner there is the need for continuing salary for his family's living expenses and medical expenses. He also has the tremendous disadvantage of not being in the business on a daily basis to watch over his very valuable investment.

For the non-disabled owner, he has the problem of doing both his duties and the duties of the disabled owner, and the obligation to spend additional money to hire someone to do those duties that his co-owner formerly did. This is a bad situation for everyone.

The answer to this solution is to provide in the stock redemption agreement that disability will also be dealt with on a business like and fully funded basis. The tool to accomplish this is lump sum disability buy out insurance.

This is a fairly new product that provides for a lump sum payment to the business for stock or business interest purchase after a specified waiting period of total disability by one of the owners. After this period of disability, a lump sum payment is paid to the business or the non-disabled shareholder to purchase the interest of the disabled shareholder. This lump sum cash payment combined with other monthly disability benefits allows for the smooth transition of the business and quickly brings to a head all business continuation issues.

We have used this tool for several years to avoid the problems of business continuation due to disability. It is a valuable tool which is not widely known. When planning your business continuation program, it is one you should look at closely and make a part of any corporate or partnership continuation plan. Consult your insurance advisor or accountant to get more information on this very valuable business solution tool.

Manpower sponsoring world-wide type-off

According to the world's largest temporary help firm, using your computer skills can be fun—and profitable.

Manpower Temporary Services' 1,600 offices around the world are serving as contest locations for the "World Invitational Type-Off," the search for the world's fastest and most accurate keyboardist on a personal computer. The contest is co-sponsored by Key Tronic Corp., the world's largest independent manufacturer of computer keyboards, and WordPerfect Corp., maker of the best-selling WordPerfect word processing software.

The five-minute exercise of text processing speed and accuracy, developed for Key Tronic by Dr. Susie VanHuss of the Univ. of South Carolina, can be taken at any Manpower office through July 31.

"This is a way to call attention to the importance of people with computer skills in today's workplace," said Charles Bartels of Manpower. "Today, investing in the quality of the work force, and the work they produce, means equipping them with the skills needed to be successful when working with computers."

Manpower, a leader in office automation skills assessment and training, has invested substantially in the research and development of comprehensive skill measurements for automated office positions. "We're continually refining our approach to assessing the 'total operator' one who is accurate as well as quick on automated equipment," said Bartels.

The contest will culminate with six finalists competing for the title along with a new car, $10,000 in cash and more at the COMDEX Computer Show in Las Vegas this October.

Anyone interested in entering the contest is encouraged to call 1(800)262-6006 to register.

Nash ad exhibit is multi-faceted

If you're old enough to remember, it's a cruise down memory lane. If you're too young to recall, it's a time-machine trip back to simpler days.

And, "The Art of the Wheel: Nash Advertising and Memorabilia" — the current special exhibit at the Kenosha County Historical Society and Museum — offers even more.

"It's more than an advertising exhibit. It's an art exhibit, and it's a slice of Americana," said Dane F. Pollei, executive director of the society and museum.

Award-winning original drawings by artist Howard Scott are the centerpieces of the exhibit, which will run through Aug. 10.

The 14 colorful, life-like, Norman Rockwell-esque drawings were used in Nash's innovative billboard advertising campaigns of the late 1940's and early 1950's and won numerous artistic awards in the advertising world.

"Nash pioneered the concept of fuel efficiency and used this in promotional campaigns as early as the 1940's," Pollei said. "Their advertising primarily targeted families and older adults."

The exhibit also includes showroom banners, poster, flyers, promotional items and other memorabilia from that Golden Age of advertising and automobiling.

Pollei said many of the items were borrowed from a Kenosha area resident, who wishes to remain anonymous.

Over 1,000 people visited the exhibit during the first six days it was open. The exhibit was further enhanced by a collection of vintage Nashs on hand June 30 in conjunction with Star Spangled Kenosha Days.

"The summer is always our best season, but this has been phenomenal," Pollei said. "The tourism people (Kenosha Area Tourism Corporation) said people have been calling and asking how to get here."

"It shows that people have an interest not only in local history, but also in the Nash mystique and industrial heritage. The rising number of tourists visiting the museum also demonstrates that we have an economic impact on our community."

This is the 75th anniversary of when Charles Nash made his move from Detroit to Kenosha to make the car which would bear his name.

In 1916, Nash gave up his positions as the president of General Motors and chairman of the Buick Division to buy the Jeffrey Motor Works in Kenosha.

In 1935, Nash purchased the Kelvinator Co. and added the refrigerator business to the company's endeavors. Nash merged with Hudson in 1955, and the company became known as The American Motor Company in 1957.

AMC kept its name and logo, although controlling stock in the company was purchased by Renault in 1980. Chrysler bought the whole ball of wax in 1987.

Despite high hopes for a resurgence under Chrysler, the legacy of the Nash died in 1988.

The production of engines for Jeep, which became part of the AMC and then Chrysler family, is the only remaining thread in the grand tapestry of mergers and purchases that spanned the century. An industry that once dominated the Kenosha economy and employed over 16,000 people now has jobs for 1,000.

"It's still tied with the Kenosha Unified School District as the leading employer in the area," Pollei said.

by GREG MILLER

"Nash was a pioneer in small cars and fuel economy. It was a very innovative company, but in the late '60's, it started trying to push really big cars. AMC sold a lot of its technology to General Motors and Ford."

If you can't make it before the Nash exhibit closes, never fear. The Kenosha County Historical Society and Museum has other intriguing seasonal and permanent exhibits to catch your fancy.

"Right now, we have six special exhibits a year," Pollei said. "From among what we call 'permanent' displays, we change one display each year."

The museum and society offices are located in the George Yule residence, which was built in 1899. Yule was the vice president of the Badger Manufacturing Co. and superintendent of the Bain Wagon Co.

The county purchased the mansion for use as a museum in 1964. A new addition was put on in 1975, but "we're already out of space," Pollei said.

The Kenosha Historical Society was founded in 1878 and is a private, non-profit organization. Funds come in the form of an annual grant from the county and fundraising efforts. There is no admission charge, but donations are greatly appreciated.

"We're the fourth leading tourist attraction in the Kenosha area," Pollei said. "We're the No. 1 cultural attraction."

The museum is located at 6300 Third Ave. (close to the lake). Gallery hours are 2-4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. Appointments can be made for group tours.

I remember grandma

Mom on the Run

My grandmother began raising me right after I was born. She was 73 at the time. Still, today, 20 years after she died, I think of her frequently. She only spoke Polish. Hence, that was the language I was raised with.

My fondest memories were sunny, summer days in her wonderful garden. She, filling a large metal watering can and I, following along with my play one. There were lush peonies, stately orange gladioli, bright red poppies, and bushes filled with the sweetest raspberries I'd ever tasted. That is how we spent our summers and every other season—together.

I remember grandma as always being very old. Consistently garbed in floral housedress, substantial black shoes, and her signature apron, she only varied her wardrobe to black hat, coat and shoes for church services. She would often take my soft face into her rough, wrinkled hands and tell me in Polish how much she loved me. We would sing Polish folk songs, which, unfortunately I have forgotten, and enjoy each other's company. I still feel her love today.

I was away at college when one night I dreamt that she died. I asked a boyfriend if he would mind the two hour drive to my hometown so I could just be sure that she was fine. Two days later we took that trip. We left later than expected and I could only spend 15 minutes with her before we had to take the return trip. Grandma and I sat on a couch in her Victorian living room. She held my then older face in her hands and told me once again how much she loved me. I got up to go and she accompanied me, far less steady of foot than I remembered. As we drove down the street, I turned back to see her silhouette, waving her last greeting to me in the shadow of the porchlight. She died three days later.

I went back home for the funeral. I watched as they lowered her casket into the cold ground on that snowy, winter-like afternoon which was like so many others in upstate New York. I never cried; what we had was perfect and we had said our goodbyes. It was not until years later that I cried over the love and warmth that I began to miss. And it was years that I began to feel her as that spirit inside me whose presence still warmed me when I again would need her love.

My daughter is not fortunate enough to have a grandmother like this. I feel bad that she will never know the complete, unselfish love that only a grandmother can give. So, if you are a grandmother out there and are fortunate to have a soft, warm little face to hold, enjoy!—by MARY CATHERINE RHEDIN

Storytellers share tales under 'big Burr Oak'

Before present day malls and discount shopping there was the General Store. Here everyone in town shopped and visited. The store was a place to tell stories, a place to share the everyday business of living. This is a part of McHenry County history that is recreated each year in Spring Grove at the Illinois Storytelling Festival. Under the big Burr Oak in the village park all are invited to pull up a hay bale next to the pickle barrel and to share an anecdote, a joke, a personal experience, or perhaps to just "pass the time" in the shade on a warm, summer's afternoon.

Such is the ambiance of the Illinois Storytelling Festival where most of the 5,000 plus audience come to hear the professionals, still there is a chance for everyone to tell a story. This year's event will feature some of America's finest storytellers and humorists telling throughout the weekend on stages under three tents: A family tent (for all ages), a children's tent and adult tent.

This year's line-up includes: Milbre Burch is a renowned storyteller highly sought after for her retelling of traditional folktales as well as her original monologues.

Donald Davis, was born into a Southern Appalachian mountain world rich in stories. Featured at virtually every major storytelling festival in the United States including the Smithsonian Institute, he is past board chairman of the National Assn. for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling and has been guest host on National Public Radio's Good Evening radio program.

Janice Harrington tells stories primarily from her own African American tradition. She has performed at various storytelling events including the Magnolia Storytelling Festival in Mississippi and the "Stories from the Heartlands Festival" in Austin, Minn.

Susan Jackson has just completed a European tour with the National Theatre of the Deaf, she will be telling her stories in sign language.

The Illinois Storytelling Festival runs Saturday, July 27 from noon to 5 p.m., Ghost Stories from 9 p.m. to midnight and Sunday, July 28 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Daily admission prices are $10 for adults, $7 for those over 65 years of age. Children 12 and under who are accompanied by their parents are admitted free to all events. Spring Grove Village Park is located in Spring Grove on Rte. 12, four miles north of Fox Lake. For further information or enrollment in the storytelling class call (815) 648-2039.

'Book of the Night'

Critic's Choice

Chicago's Goodman Theater departs from the norm to wind down its current season with an original and very creative musical, "Book of the Night," which runs through Aug. 4.

The high-intensity production, nearly two hours in length and presented with no intermission, has a lot going, but it's not entirely unflawed. Some of its weaker numbers reflect, in part, the difficulty involved with meshing and collaborative effort (in this case, between Louis Rosen and Thom Bishop).

Its fine cast of singers and dancers, including many well known on the local theater circuit, shares the nighttime dreams and nightmares, of 13 characters.

Michael Phillippi's outstanding rolling set design, with strong background visuals projected by John Boesche, contributes striking eye appeal, while a live orchestra conducted by Mark Mitchell adds further "frosting" to the proceedings.

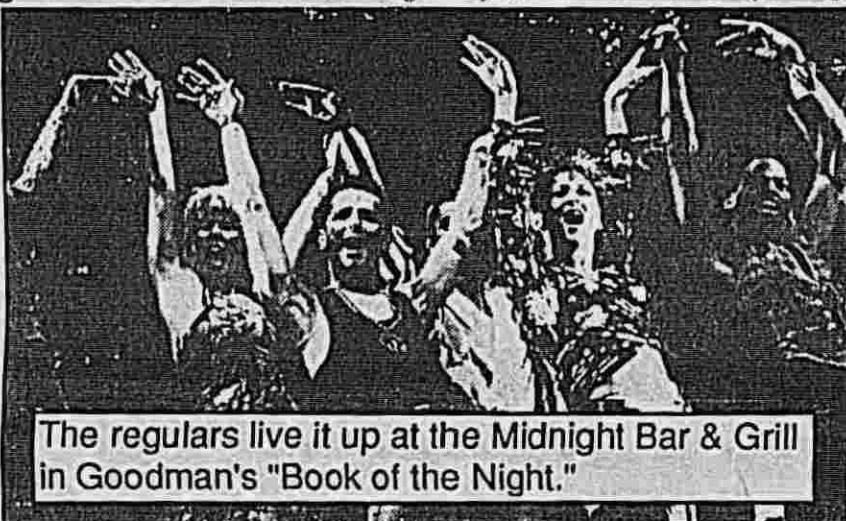

Among the characters is a lonely young woman looking for instate love on a Saturday night and finding it, to her misfortune, in one of the play's most poignant numbers, "Who's This Stranger?" sung by Jessica Molasky.

Keith Byron-Kirk, as the Wishing Man, conjures up a sultry song, "Someone Else's Dream," during Act 3 at the Midnight Bar and Grill.

But both John Herrera ("Sunday in the Park with George," "Lend me a Tenor") and David Studwell ("A Funny Thing Happened on the way to the Forum") were surprisingly sedate, almost wishy-washy in their roles, Herrera as the street cop and seen-it-all desk clerk at the Empty Arms Hotel and Studwell as husband of the distant Jill.

There's a whimsically entertaining bedtime number entitled "Things That Go Bump in the Night" featuring a young widow's child and the Imaginary Quartet. And the young widow herself (Paula Newsome) sparkles with several songs, from "Lullaby" to "Half the Bed."

But some songs, such as "Just Say Yes" (a parody on drugs), somehow seemed out of sync and didn't help advance the production. With some further fine tuning, "Book of the Night" undoubtedly will find its place in American theater.—by TOM WITOM

The regulars live it up at the Midnight Bar & Grill in Goodman's "Book of the Night."

Rweel World

'Dying,' is, should, will

My how the Hollywood worm turns!

Julia Roberts and Kevin Costner, the two brightest film stars of 1990, loved by fans and critics alike, have both drawn boos and tomato throwing from their former boosters with their latest flicks.

Costner's much ballyhooed "Robin Hood" had many film critics tossing their cookies and retching as they left the theater.

But the fans still seem to love Costner, British accent or no, because the box office ratings for "Robin Hood" are stupendous.

In Roberts' case, the critics and fans alike greeted "Flatliners" and "Sleeping With The Enemy" with lukewarm interest both heading post haste to the video barn.

Now Roberts is out in another love story, "Dying Young."

Here we have the familiar plot that Roberts handled so well in "Pretty Woman."

But "Dying" is no "Pretty Woman."

Campbell Scott, her eventual lover who is dying of leukemia, is no Richard Gere, in fact he's not much of an actor at all.

The ending lacks the happiness and "all dreams can come true" premise of "Woman" and "Officer and a Gentleman" loved by both fans and critics.

Roberts and Scott are not believably in love and Scott's demise didn't even bring a tear to our eye because he never made us care about him.

Some critics bewailed the lack of Roberts' ingratiating laugh and smile in this one.

They're both there, but they are upstaged by this depressing and boring tale wherein the rich Scott hires the lower class Roberts to make his last days happier and both fall in love.

"Dying" could have been as moving as "Terms of Endearment," but it misses the boat entirely.

We blame the miscasting of Scott and a rather lacy script as we rate "Dying" a low two out of five stars.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Campbell Scott

Vacation photography tips for the amateur

by JIM WARNKEN
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you're into things like f-stops, focal lengths, shutter speeds etc., this article is not for you. If, however, you prefer the "one button does all" type of camera and most of your picture taking is done on vacation, you may find the following tips helpful.

Lets start by pulling out the vacation pictures from last years trip to Disney World. Now put the ones you find really interesting in one pile and the boring ones in another.

I'll bet the interesting shots include things like the look of joy (or fear) on little Bobby's face the first time he saw that six foot tall Mouse. Or maybe it's the shot of Dawn staring up in wonder at Cinderella's Castle.

Included in the boring stack are probably the view from the hotel window or various general shots of the park.

So what's the difference between the pictures we like and those which we can't even remember why we took?

It's called a "center of interest". In other words, interesting pictures usually include a person, object, or some action, upon which the picture is based. This is not the shot of the family standing under the sign "Welcome to Disney World". The best pictures are not posed. Some sort of action also brings life to pictures.

Some minor technical advice. I've found film speed of ASA 200 to be a good choice for most vacation photos. It can also make several passes through airport security machines with no damage.

One accessory you might want to purchase is a polarized filter. Among other things, it will allow you to take pictures through windows without getting reflections.

Remember, a well planned photograph is more important than a $500 camera.

PM&L casts spell with 'Into the Woods'

Excitement is in the air as cast, crew, and musicians are preparing for the opening of the musical "Into the Woods" by Sondheim and Lapine at the PM&L Theatre, 877 Main St., Antioch. Show dates are July 26, 27, Aug. 2, 3, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. and July 27, Aug. 4 and 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Reservations can be made by calling (708) 395-3055. The Aug. 3 performance will be signed for the hearing impaired. For TDD reservations call (708) 356-3717. Ticket prices are $6 for adults and $5 for students and seniors. Since seating is limited reservations are essential. The box office is open at 6:45 p.m. for evening performances and 1:15 p.m. for matinees. Tickets must be picked at least 15 minutes before curtain.

In "Into the Woods" Stephen Sondheim and James Lapine lead a conglomeration of new and old storybook characters on a journey of growth and self-discovery. This adult fairy tale brings together Cinderella (Cindy Ringer from Fox Lake), Little Red Riding Hood (Jeanine Pekkarinen from Waukegan), Jack in the Beanstalk (Scott Cooper from Waukegan), and Rapunzel (Melody Preston from Ingleside), cleverly weaving their familiar sagas in the light-hearted first act, then taking them on a far more pressing and sobering adventure in the second.

The musical's catalysts are a Baker and his Wife (Mark Badtke from Genoa City, Wis., and Pat Taffiner from Lindenhurst), who are unable to have children as the result of a witch's spell (Jennifer Biel from Antioch, just returned from Georgia).

Other cast members are Steve Garside, Rob Findly, Steve Biel, Patrick Ker, Donna Badtke, Jennifer Holbo, Jennifer Johnson, Jenne Wester, Jeanette Ray, Ken Scheskie, Jerald Howard, Tricia Apostol, and Donna Warner.

Production staff members are Ken Smouse from Antioch, director and set designer; Kathy Munks from Harvard, music director and pianist; Aileen Biel from Antioch, stage manager; Nancy Manzardo from Spring Grove, lighting designer; Hank Apostol from Antioch, set construction; Jan Wilke from Antioch, costume designer.

Your Horoscope

by CHARLES KING COOPER

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) The courage of your convictions brings you success in non-material matters, but with higher-ups, you'll need diplomacy now. The drive for success in you is strong now and you will see immediate results. Avoid loaning or borrowing money from friends.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You're able to put your foot down in an effective way now. A rumor is circulating and you'll get to the bottom of it. Mental work is favored. Once you receive a domestic plan, it's smooth sailing. Don't begrudge the fact that you may have to put in more work than you had initially planned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Certainly, you can have fun without going hog wild with the spending. You bring a depth of feeling to creative work and personal relationships now. Energy is sporadic now. The week begins on a lazy note, but then you pull things together with an amazing concentration of purpose.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Writers and public speakers are on the top of their craft. Your goals are high now, but you reach them. Perfectionism this time leads to quality work. Be careful that money is well spent now. You're inclined to overuse credit or to gamble.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A tendency to let things slide on the job needs curtailing. Some make plans for an unusual pleasure trip. Meetings with advisers are favored. It's best to do things yourself concerning your career now. You can't count on others to follow through now.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You can obtain a take-charge position in some group activity now. Social life tempts you to extravagance, but otherwise it should be beneficial for you. The ability to work long and hard enables you to solve whatever difficulties may arise now.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Somebody may put you down for coming on too strong, but take this affront in stride as you've got everything going for you now. Business and financial prospects improve now. Those connections you've made in the past are beginning to pay off career-wise now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You can take what you hear at face value. No need to be unduly suspicious. Others are sincere and you're not being tested. Social life is tops. Everything seems to be going according to schedule with family and home matters, but you still might worry too much.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Sports and exercise will fill the bill for some of you, while others find this the perfect time to further romance. Overall, an exciting week. You're moving in the right direction in a career venture, but may be in too much of a hurry to get there.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) This may be the week when some of you make or receive a marriage proposal. There may still be some relatives to win over, but happiness is your keynote now. It's a wonderful week for romance and social life. Don't let someone's disinterest in a business venture cause you not to enjoy yourself.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Family life and domestic interests are highlighted, though you may be called upon to help a loved one in some way. Some enjoy financial luck. Visits with grandchildren are heart-warming. Travel and recreational pursuits are happily accented.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) This time you know what you're doing. You may be unhappy about another's skepticism, but you are on the right track and should stay there. Have faith and patience. Things are going well for you now. Plan a family get-together this weekend.

Follow Lake Michigan circle tour for scenic vacation

Scenic visiting points around Lake Michigan can be reached by following the Lake Michigan Circle Tour route marked by appropriate signs along the numerical routes it follows. We used it sparingly on our trip to the Manitowoc, Two-Rivers areas due to a short time schedule. But returning, followed it on 70 percent of our drive. It presents scenic and historical attractions. Maps are available at most tourism stops enroute, or by mail in advance, to help in trip planning.

Col. Bill — Outdoors

Our 3 p.m. departure from Two Rivers' Lighthouse Inn with some inn-frozen lake trout in the trunk pointed us south toward Racine following "The West Coast of Wisconsin" as some call it, while others term it "Wisconsin's East Coast of Lake Michigan," we had the choice.

We chose the Holiday Inn on Racine's Root River facing Rte. 43. It is on the site of the old Horlick Dam where, before electricity, water powered grinding mills crushed the grains and flavors that made Horlick's ice cream and malted milk a favorite of the 1900's. From the inn's mirrored dining room, guests may watch tumbling water flowing over the reconstructed dam, water edge anglers, or dining guests, including themselves, in the room's reflective wall surfaces. Old timers say the dam looks much more peaceful now than when Joseph Horlick was creating his business empire. Johnson Wax, known internationally, was born in Racine back in 1892. In 1936, Johnson commissioned Frank Lloyd Wright to design commercial buildings and homes which still stand to attract those who admire well financed architectural genius.

For the angler, Racine's fine salmon fishing waters are now hosting Salmon-a-Rama, a fishing contest which runs through July 21. It will attract over 4,500 shore and boat anglers, who will probably record about 12 tons of fish.

A new facility for visitors is Racine's waterfront trolley for easy access with day and night time schedules that include the waterfront bus stops at minimal charges. Users may ride as long as they wish. Not everything is downtown in Racine. We visited several of their outlying parks, great Lake Michigan beaches, especially North Beach. Eighteen inland lakes dot Racine County with public access on eight of them for usual inland fishing of northerns, walleye, bass and panfish. Ten municipal, public and private golf courses appeal to that interest at reasonable fees. Ethnic cultures have left their mark in museums, arts and even foods such as Racine's Danish Kringle, a flaky oval pastry, now famous throughout the country. Travelers may call the Racine Tourism office for detailed information or pamphlets at 1(800)C-RACINE. Their traditional county fair is July 24 to 28 featuring a midway carnival, exhibits, livestock auctions, food and entertainment with special children's features.

Continuing south, toward home, we stopped for a short look and visit at Illinois Beach Resort on Lake Michigan at the edge of Zion. A part of Illinois' State Park system, this resort is the second most visited park in the state and lies amid Illinois only sand dune area. Hiking, biking and camping are nearby and the beach is long and broad. Resort guests my retreat from the beach to indoor exercise rooms, pool, whirlpool and sauna. The location is also convenient to Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Fort Sheridan and Six Flag's Great America. Information and reservation are available by calling 1(800)424-6065. The Wisconsin Lake Shore Dr. is only part of a much more comprehensive plan which follows the Great Lakes to Ohio and beyond where Lake Erie's Lorain County promises we'll be "waist high in walleye" in a couple weeks.

Antioch woman helps at Victory Lakes

Interviews

When Terry Colby's youngest child started school full time, she realized she would have a lot of new time on her hands.

"I really felt a need to help and not necessarily get paid to do it," said the Antioch woman.

Colby's father had recently died from cancer, and she remembered the volunteers of Hospice, where he spent his final days.

"The volunteers were so helpful to the family," she said. "I found out that volunteers are really important."

Since January, Colby has been donating three hours a week at Victory Lakes Care Center. "I'd like to do more but my schedule doesn't permit it," she said.

She works in the dining room. "I love it. I love working with the people, and Victory Lakes is a wonderful place to volunteer," Colby said.

"They're concerned about who is a volunteer and who they have here."

Colby has been married to her husband, Lawrence, for 22 years. They have four children, ranging in age from 7 to 20.

PLAN FEATURES TWO DEEP FRONT PORCHES, UPPER AND LOWER

PLAIN

A wide formal foyer is the first step to this home plan after you cross the deep lower porch. Your first impression is the elegance of the separated living room and dining room as well as the open stair in a central two story opening to the second floor. A basement stairway is shown below the stair up.

The left rear of this plan encompasses an unusually large U-shape kitchen and an enormous breakfast room that is accented by a bay window and extra pantry.

The central portion of the rear of the plan encompasses a full laundry room, central hall and a half bath for daytime convenience. The right rear is a full sized family room with three pairs of French doors to the sun deck. A central hall is tucked away between the living room and family room. This hall will allow access one to the other as well as access to a built in wet bar and the private study that boasts a vaulted ceiling, false beams and a French door to a private covered porch area.

There are three extremely large bedrooms and two full baths on the second floor. The master bedroom enjoys the privacy of a compartment bath, sitting area, fireplace, large walk in closet, and a tray ceiling. Closets are plentiful throughout and a balcony overlooks the foyer from the upstairs central hall. Notice the second floor access from a balcony to the full width second story porch.

The plan is number 3912. It includes 3,967 square feet of heated area and is a computer generated plan. For further information write W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

'At Home' Household Tips BY MAXINE

Copper Cleaner

• Paste of lemon juice, salt and flour, or rub with vinegar and salt.

Flea & Tick Repellent

• Feed 2 tbsp. of brewer's yeast and 1 clove of raw garlic to companion animals daily. Sprinkle fennel, rue and rosemary on carpets and bedding areas to repel fleas. Place eucalyptus seeds and leaves and cedar chips around animal sleeping areas.

Chemical Fertilizer

• Use compost.

Scouring Pads

• Let pots and pans soak in a baking soda solution before washing.

Furniture Polish

• Mix three parts olive oil and one part vinegar or one part lemon juice with two parts olive oil. Use with a soft cloth.

Prevent sticking

• Place a freshly baked cake or loaf of homemade bread on a plate dusted with powdered sugar or flour. This will prevent the cake or bread from sticking to the plate.

Recycled jars

• Keep yourself organized; Nail the lids to the underside of a workshop shelf. Fill the jars with small parts or nails, then screw them onto their lids. Use jars to store paint for future touch-ups. Keep one in your sewing basket to hold safety pins, hooks and eyes, buttons or other notions.

Here's the scoop

• Use an ice cream scoop to make uniform meatballs, matzo balls and dumplings. Rub the scoop with a small amount of vegetable oil or spritz it with a nonstick spray to keep the mixture from sticking. Scoops come in a variety of sizes so you can tailor them to your specific needs.

Instant Picnic

• An idea for an easy portable meal: Put uncooked frankfurters in a widemouthed vacuum bottle and cover with boiling water. Cap tightly. Pack rolls, condiments, napkins, etc. When you're ready to eat, simply remove a now cooked hot dog, pop it into a bun and sit back and enjoy your instant picnic.

Perfect slices

• For quick and uniform mushroom slices, use an egg-slicer.

Color your gravy

• Add a couple of pinches of instant coffee to brown gravy for a nice rich color that won't change the taste.

Nailpolish tip

• Store nail polish in the refrigerator at least three hours before using it. It will go on smoother and dry faster. Another quick-dry method: Dip polished nails into cold water for about a minute. Pat dry (do not rub) and you're on your way.

Touch-up quickie

• Use a piece of foam rubber for touch-up paint jobs and then throw it away. No messy brushes to clean.

What Momma

never taught you

• Cousin Judy always remembers my kids' birthdays by sending them a simple, but most appreciated, annual gift. Judy writes out a check for the birthday child in the same amount as his or her age. My sons and daughters look forward to Judy's gift every year, and it certainly does make getting older more rewarding. Unfortunately, she doesn't do the same for me-but I don't think she could afford it!

Vegetable Spray

• When working with yeast dough, spray your bowl before setting the dough in it to rise. Then before kneading, use nonstick spray on your counter or table.

Spaghetti sauce staining your plastic food-storage containers? Spray the inside of the container before adding any tomato-based sauce.

• Use nonstick spray on garden shovels (or snow shovels) before using. Dirt and snow will slide right off.

• Cleanup is a snap if you use nonstick spray on your broiler pan before cooking.

Grill Techniques

• Grilling foods outdoors makes mealtime a snap. Here's how to perk up your grill skills:

• Apply barbeque sauce to meat or chicken with a new, small paintbrush.

• Throw dried herbs, or fresh herbs that have soaked in water, on coals to add flavor to what's cooking.

• Save time by partially precooking chicken or steaks or ribs in your microwave oven. Finish cooking on the grill to give meat that "outdoorsy" flavor.

• Oil your grill before starting your fire to make cleanup easier. The oil will also prevent meats from sticking to the grill.

• If you've finished your cooking but your coals have away to go before they die, check to see if there's something else in your refrigerator you can prepare on the grill-and then reheat in your oven or microwave in a day or two.

• Wipe your warm grill clean with a crumpled ball of aluminum foil.

• Wrap vegetables or fish in foil to steam-cook on the grill. Add a little butter or oil and spices, then seal foil edges tightly.

Keep the bugs away

• Don't wear perfume or use scented soaps or shampoos when you know you'll be outdoors. All little flying creatures gravitate to you when you smell good.

• White vinegar rubbed on your skin will help keep pests away.

• Sprinkle cinnamon around door thresholds and window sills to keep small insects from coming in.

• Gnats bothering you? Rub a thin coat of baby oil on exposed skin.

• Spray a flying bee or wasp with a water mister to weigh down the bug's wings before going after it with your fly swatter or newspaper roll.

• If slugs are dining on your garden plants, place a low dish filled with beer in the garden. Any brand will do, they will crawl in and drown.

• Cobwebs around your deck or porch? Don't be tempted to sweep them all away. Remember, spiders eat flying insects that get caught in their webs.

Wheeled stands make outdoor planters mobile, protect your deck

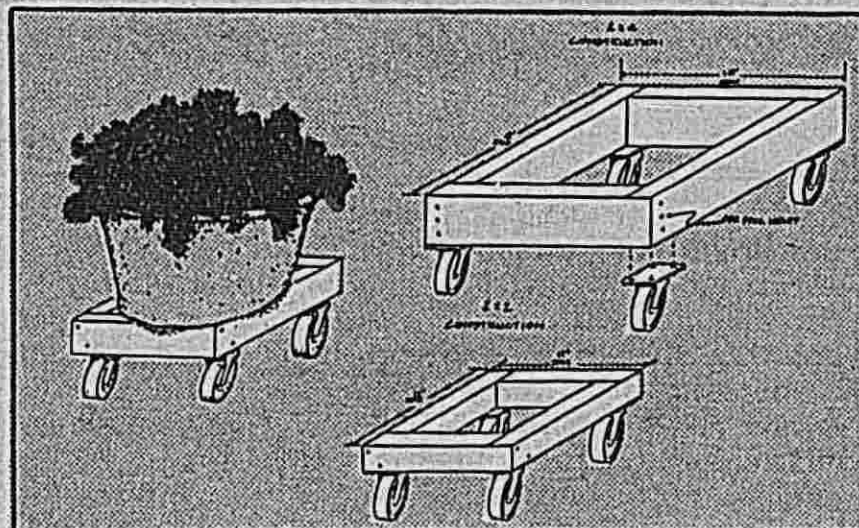

Have you every tried to move a large plant container and found it was too heavy to budge? Or relocated a planter only to discover that the decking under it had started to rot?

With these simple-to-build plant stands, moving even heavy containers is surprisingly easy. They will also keep the base of the planter off the deck, protecting the wood decking from constant moisture and possible damage.

For large containers, such as oak whisky-barrel planters, you will need four lengths of western softwood 2x4s, approximately 16 inches long. This will produce a finished stand about 17 1/2 inches square.

Before you start, measure the base of your planter to make sure the stand will fit. If the planter is round, the finished stand should be slightly smaller than the diameter of the container so the sides of the planter will rest securely on top of the stand. If the planter is square, the stand should be slightly larger than the base of the container.

Turn the 2x4s on edge to form a square, lapping them at the corners as

These mobile planter stands make moving even large containers a breeze. And they'll help protect your deck against water damage. The stands can be built any size up to about 18 inch square, using 2x4s or 2x2s, depending on the size of the plant container. And they're so simple to build, you can turn out several in a single afternoon.

shown. Join the 2x4s with two or three 3-inch galvanized nails per corner. To avoid splitting the wood, pre-drill the holes, using a drill bit slightly smaller than the nail.

You will need four heavy-duty casters to complete the project. Be sure to select a pivoting caster with a flat metal plate which can be screwed into the base of the frame. The plate will help to reinforce the corner joint.

For smaller planters, use 2x2s to form the stand, end nailing the corners, as shown. For a 12-inch square stand, you will need four lengths of 2x2, 10 1/2 inches long, and four pivoting casters. Join the corners with two 2 1/2 inch galvanized nails per joint.

To help protect the wood, finish the stands with two or more applications of exterior stain or paint. Or use a water-repellent sealer. Western softwood lumber is easy to work with and extremely durable when properly finished.

Details in Decorating

Need an answer to a decorating problem or maybe a new idea?...Just ask Carolyn

Q. I have two natural wicker chairs that have been kept outside on a patio for two summer seasons and now have become sun bleached and dry looking. How can I restore them to a new look and bring them back inside of my home to use in my family room? If I have to paint them, what type of paint is recommended? And should they be hand painted or spray painted?

Barbara Doyle, Linden-

hurst

A. I would have them spray painted with a transparent or solid stain to revive them. Or try an oil based enamel in a color. Spraying is, of course, going to completely cover the "knocks and crannies" of the wicker weave. Some inside information—find a refinisher of furniture or even automobiles with a spray booth. The finished product will be spectacular and more durable.

Q. We've moved into a 1950's vintage home with the original bathrooms and fixtures, which are still in excellent working order. How can we live up the wall to update the rooms and give them some pizzaz?

C. Graham, Mundelein

A. Special paint effects that add hue and texture work wonders on bathroom walls. The techniques fall into general categories: You can add paint over a background color; as in sponging or spattering, or you can partly remove a still wet top coat with rags, combs or stippling brushes. Marbling with paint yields an especially appealing faux finish, though it's a difficult technique that requires a practiced hand. Wallpaper offers nearly infinite decorating possibilities. For bathrooms, it should be vinyl or vinyl coated and applied carefully so that the room's higher humidity won't cause edges to peel. You can also achieve attractive effects by combining paper and paint. Consider painting the room and then using a wallpaper border above the baseboard, around a fixture mirror or at countertop level, as you would a chair rail.

Q. We were requested by our builder to choose a white colored paint for our new home. We couldn't believe it when we discovered we had about 50 choices to select from. How does one go about choosing the correct white paint?

P. Handchez
Palatine

A. A shocking realization that there can be so many whites to choose from. But all choices have a reason behind them. Mostly, there are so many whites, because people paint their rooms defensively. They choose light and simple colors because they don't want to make a mistake. Consider these options. Use a white with a tint of blue or green for cooling off southern exposures, and/or a white with a yellow or orange tint for north facing spaces. An interesting white is one with a touch of yellow and a touch of violet added. It will accentuate warmth in direct sun and coolness in shade. Take color chips into the house itself and test them in different areas. Don't choose under the fluorescent lighting of a store.

Q. I've seen a lot of dark stained, fat chunky furniture lately. It seems to come straight out of a hunt club or horse country atmosphere. What is this look and where it is used?

L. Hinsch
Long Grove

A. It's the thoroughbred look, as popularized by Ralph Lauren. Alias, hunt cottage. Colors are intense greens, rich burgundies. Eminently masculine, yet restrained. The look meets a real market need: it permits men and women who aren't fussy to enjoy the casual end of refined country, in a style that's still self indulgent. Rich people have been doing it for years.

Your own garden

by randee rian

Herbs—Harvesting and drying

Fresh leaves can be picked for immediate use at any time during the growing season. Most herbs wilt soon after cutting. Putting them in a jar of water out of the sun helps for an hour or so, but to keep picked herbs such as parsley fresh for a few days, or to revive wilted cut herbs, place them in a plastic bag filled with air and tightly secured. Store in the refrigerator and they should remain in good condition for several days.

Many herbs keep their flavor well when dried, and some even seem to improve with drying. As soon as a leaf or flower is separated from the plant changes begin. The sooner drying begins, and the quicker the system, the better the quality and color of the dried herb will be. The speed is limited, however, as moisture must be removed gradually from a plant.

Drying leaves in the oven is not recommended, as the water evaporates too quickly and essential oils are lost.

Wipe off any soil or grit and don't wash unless absolutely necessary. Keep the leaves out of the sunlight as it evaporated essential oils. Hang stems of leaves such as sage, rosemary, savory and thyme in small bunches, tied with string. Do not pack stems too tightly together, as air needs to circulate through and around the bunch. About 10 stems at a time should be the maximum. Hang bunches stem side up. If you're hanging them anywhere dusty, place loose paper bags over them with the bottom end open.

Once dried, remove leaves from their stems. Keep them whole so they retain their scent and goodness for as long as possible. Break the up only if you have to fit them into jars, crush them just before using.

Herbs should be stored in airtight dark glass bottles away from sunlight, moisture and dust.

Plastic and metal containers are not suitable, as they may affect the flavor and color of the herb. Label bottles with the name and the date. Check dried leaves periodically for moisture or molds and discard them promptly if you discover anything. Most herbs deteriorate after a year.

Freezing herbs: Freezing retains color and flavor as well as much of the nutritive value of fresh young leaves. The easiest way to freeze herbs is simply to pack them into plastic bags and label.

ANYONE CAN DO IT!?!?—With sponge painting it's possible to be creative and economical

by MARY RHEDIN
Lakeland Newspapers

How many times has someone said, "Anybody can do it," and you do with disastrous results. Such would not be the case should you decide to try sponge painting.

I was inspired to try this by a Vernon Hills neighbor, Phil Gomber, who armed with instructions gleaned from "How to Sponge" books from local decorating stores gave me some rudimentary instructions. He added the caveat, "But you should go to the store and read the book for yourself." I was too lazy, and further inspired toward creativity so I used materials at hand and started sponging. It was fun, easy, and provided a unique decorating idea.

Sponge painting is economical and easy; when compared with the cost of wallpapering. Also, its difficult to make a mistake. Whatever you do will probably look fine.

If you are a beginner, it would be best to tackle a small bathroom, or perhaps even a laundry room. Depending on the colors you use, the effect can be as restful as a Monet painting or very bold. After you have prepared your walls with a clean, fresh coat of paint, and have invested in a large natural sponge it is time to get serious. Sponging three colors provides an excellent result. You can choose your colors from a wide selection available at local paint and hardware stores. It is advisable to cut your natural sponge into three pieces; one narrow to fill in the corners of your room. Using your sponge dipped into a tray of paint, having blotted the excess on old newspapers, it is time to sponge a four foot square section. Sponging sections gives a better look, as your sponge will give different blots as it dries. You should choose as your initial color the one you wish to be least pervasive in your decorating scheme. The color you wish to be most predominant should be used last.

If you use a semi-gloss latex paint, it will clean very easily. In any case, dirty fingerprints which usually haunt bathrooms are not visible on a sponged surface. As in any painting, using masking tape to protect surfaces you wish to protect is always a good idea. If you are a bit timid about the way your walls will turn out, try your combinations out on a piece of poster-board or prepared board. This may take a bit longer if you only have sparse weekends for home improvements, but the end result could make the final product one well worth waiting for.

You can create your own wallpaper pattern with sponges. Novelty and craft stores carry a wide range of sponges in the shapes of dinosaurs, sea creatures, the alphabet, and cars and trucks. Simply dipping the sponges in primary colors, for example, and arranging them in a pattern on your surface makes for a whimsical design which children will love. The beauty of decorating children's bedrooms and bathrooms with sponges is that as they grow, a simple repainting vice stripping wallpaper can update the look for school age children.

Beware that your curb you appetite to sponge paint; when the sponge but bites, it can become addictive. Trying your hand at something creative, fun and inexpensive could just solve a few of young decorating problems.

Join the fifth annual search for Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies

The fifth annual search for "Chicago's Finest Painted Ladies" has been started by the Chicago Paint & Coatings Assn. This "beauty contest" for houses has become a popular event for those who are repainting their homes this year, and those who just enjoy seeing tastefully beautified homes.

Applications are now available and the competition will conclude on Labor Day. Any home in the Greater Chicagoland area that has been repainted this year is eligible. Although there have been a number of Victorian homes among the winners, that is not the main criteria for the "Painted Ladies" award.

Homes are judged on craftsmanship, beauty of paint application, and also it is important to the judges that the colors selected fit the house, and the environment which houses the home. Industrial/commercial properties are eligible and there are two categories awarded, those dwellings that have been professionally painted and those which were restored by their owners or non-professionals.

Another factor that is important in this imaginative competition is location. The area is divided into five parts: North, Northwest, West, South and Southwest. This betters the chance of being selected a winner. A special engraved trophy will be awarded at a ceremony this fall. Also keeping an eye on this year's winners are the authors of "The Daughters of the Painted Ladies," and "San Francisco's Painted Ladies," Elizabeth Pomada and Ralph Larsen. They are "scouting" our Chicago area winners for inclusion of our homes in their next book. Therefore, here is a chance for national fame.

For applications write to the Chicago Paint and Coatings Assn., 7151 W. Gunnison St., Harwood Hts., IL 60656 or call (708)867-6090.

Potpourris

(Sentimental Favorites)

There is something nostalgic about spicy jars of fragrant floral potpourri that make any room instantly cozy and inviting. Perhaps it is the memory of a grandmother who was always surrounded by a scent of lavender. Whatever the special memory, you can recapture it today—and you children can have some very special moments to remember, too.

The traditional way to capture the essence of a summer herb garden and bring it indoors is to make a potpourri, a mixture of fragrant, colorful flowers and leaves displayed in a bowl.

Potpourri (preferably with a silent "t") is the mixture of dried flowers, spices, herbs and essential oils used to subtly perfume your room. Small amounts of potpourri, crumbled almost to a powder, can be stuffed into plump little sachet bags to be placed in lingerie drawers or linen closets.

There are two types of potpourri, moist and dry. The dry version is more popular because it takes less time and effort to make. This type of potpourri also is more colorful and attractive.

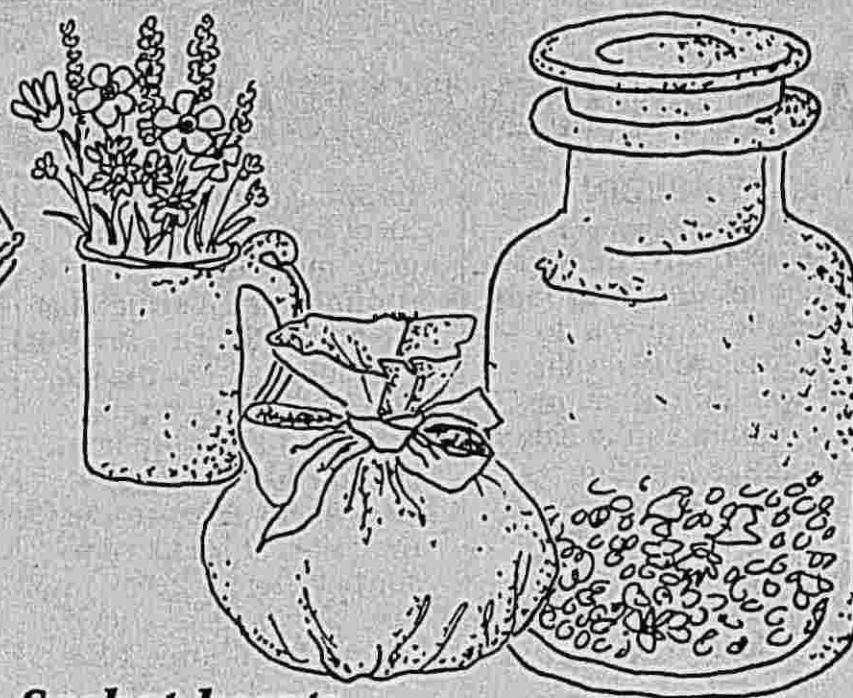

Dry potpourri begins with thoroughly dried, crispy leaves and petals. These are combined with fixatives, spices and fragrant oils, then stored in covered containers to meld and mix flavors and scents. Shake from time to time to thoroughly blend flowers. After this mellowing period, place in small containers with removable lids or stuff into little fabric bags or pillows to use as sachets.

The Dry Rose Potpourri recipe will provide a guide to you, but experience is still the best teacher. Choose what ingredients and scents you would like.

3 cups dried rose petals
2 cups dried lavender
1 cup dried lemon verbena
1 Tbl. dried lemon peel
1 Tbl. allspice
1 Tbl. cinnamon
1 Tbl. cloves
1 1/2 Tbls. orris root
A few drops of rose or lavender oil

Gently combine the flowers and leaves, then mix the orris root with the spices and blend in with your hands. Sprinkle on the rose or lavender oil, a drop at a time, stirring between each drop. Seal and store in a warm, dry, dark place for six weeks to "cure." Place the mixture in open bowls for display. Choose a container with colors that harmonize with the potpourri, or use clear glass containers to show off the potpourri between layers of lavender or rose petals. A lid will prolong its scented life.

Sachet hearts

fabrics—satins, ginghams, florals potpourri
needle
thread, laces, eyelet

Cut hearts from the desired fabrics. Place right sides together, add lace edging to the right sides and stitch around the edge of the heart. Leave a two-inch opening. Stuff and potpourri, not too firmly. Insert a length of ribbon for hanging and sew together.

Hang on a chair or bedpost, use as a pin cushion or store in your dresser drawer for an everlasting. Tie on a special Christmas gift to be remembered long after the season ends.

Evaluate your pet's diet—Check ingredients, health and activity levels

by LINDA ZIEGLER
Canine Specialties

How do you know that the food you feed your pet is nourishing? You can read the label, trust the advice of a pet professional or evaluate the overall health and appearance of your pet yourself.

There is another way for you to prove to yourself that your pet food is working! To measure and evaluate your pet's diet and digestive health, examine the stools. This can be done on a regular basis at home to help assure the health and well-being of your pet.

The importance of stool quality is in knowing what your pet is able to digest, and therefore what is available for nourishment.

Stool quality can be determined by considering five important factors:

- Ingredient digestibility
- Fiber level
- Health status
- Activity level
- Water intake

When these factors are correct, dog and cat stools are formed, firm, dark and have a reduced odor. If any one factor is incorrect, stools may be soft, loose, watery, light-colored, black or smelly.

• Ingredient digestibility. Ideally, the digestion of protein, fat and carbohydrate is completed in the small intestine. When these components are not completely digested, they pass on to the large intestine, where bacteria will break down the remaining material. This residue is not used by the body, therefore being expelled in the form of stools.

Animal-source proteins and high-quality properly processed fats and carbohydrates are digested and absorbed before reaching the large intestine.

• Fiber level. This is responsible for the control of movement of the food through the digestive tract and the amount of water in the stool. If the level is not correct, improper digestion will occur, which leads to poor absorption of nutrients and water retention in the stool.

• Health status of the pet is very important. If the intestine is parasitized, infected or otherwise damaged, digestion is effected and the stools may be loose, or diarrhea may occur.

• The pet's activity level can also play a role. Normal activity stimulates the flow of food through the intestinal tract as well as blood through the vessels that supply it. Inactivity may lead to slowed food passage.

• Water intake is usually involved in stool quality only if there is too little of it. This results in dry, hard stools that are difficult to pass.

Quality pet food is the answer to a pet's well-being. To be sure you're getting the best possible food for your pet, read the label.

Like other food industry participants, pet food manufacturers must label their products with certain information, such as ingredients (listed in descending order of weight) and guaranteed analysis (indicating a percentage of crude protein, crude fat, crude fiber and moisture).

• Ingredient listing. Proper nutrition calls for a balance of the six basic nutrient categories.

First is protein, which is found in fresh chicken, fresh poultry by-product meal and fresh meat meal. Other quality protein sources include fish meal, dried brewer's yeast and dried whole egg.

The second is fats, which provide energy. Animal fat and poultry fat are the best sources, as they are easily digested and utilized by your pet. It's also important that a preservative such as BHA has been added to keep the fat from turning rancid.

Carbohydrates are the third nutrient category. These are found in corn, rice and beet pulp. Beet pulp also provides fiber, which is necessary to aid digestion.

Vitamins and minerals are the fourth and fifth categories. These are needed in small amounts, and when buying a quality pet food, you can usually assume that all these requirements are being met. No supplements are necessary.

The final category is water. Although water is used in any pet food, it is extremely important that your pet have an ample supply of fresh water in its natural state.

Griefnotes

Infants are very important to their parents. The hopes that are built during pregnancy, the excitement at birth and the thrill of getting to know the infant are dashed when the baby's life ends. Parents ought to be allowed to grieve and express their feelings. If possible, an opportunity to talk with other parents who have also lost young children can be most helpful. It is usually not helpful to suggest that now there is another

BURK (400-09)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

Battens and shutters give a cottage-like charm to the Burk, a compact home that is economical to build. Designed for construction on a side slope, it could just as easily be built on a flat lot. Plans also call for a full basement, undeveloped space that could be used for storage, or converted to additional living space as needed.

An airlock entryway, complete with built-in seat, minimizes warm air loss in winter and provides a place to shuck off muddy footwear before entering the house.

The kitchen is next to an area that could be outfitted as either a dining or family room. Range and oven are located in the eating bar - a convenient arrangement for serving meals-

AUTO INSURANCE —

Take a moment to ask yourself the following questions:

- Is your present liability limit adequate to meet rising court awards?
- Do you have adequate protection against the most irresponsible driver on the road today...the uninsured motorist?
- Have you reviewed your comprehensive and collision coverage to see if you have the best choice of deductibles?
- Are you receiving all the discounts to which you are entitled?
If you answered "no," or "I don't know," to any of these questions, now is a good time to review your
auto insurance.

Lake County fencers get their points across

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Roy Shalom decided he wanted something new to add to his sports background. Already a tennis player, the Stevenson High School student had more than a curious interest when the Prairie View school began forming a fencing program two years ago.

Ron Shalom

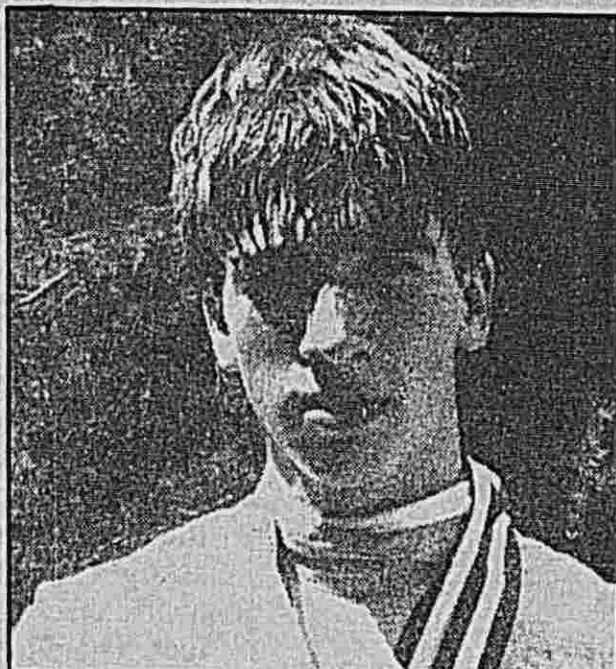

"I wanted to branch out into something else," Shalom said.

Shalom was wearing the results of those efforts as he won a gold and silver medal in different fencing divisions at the Prairie State Games in Champaign. He was one of a handful of Lake County and North Shore fencers who made their marks on the eighth annual Olympics-like competition.

Shalom, 18, won the gold in the epee and gained a silver medal in the foil. Jeff Weir of Buffalo Grove was third in epee.

Gordon Gandy of Gages Lake won a silver medal in open mixed sabre.

Shalom plans on attending University of Wisconsin at Madison this fall, but the Badgers dropped fencing along with men's gymnastics in budget cutting last year.

"I hope they reinstate it," Shalom, a member of the Illinois Fencers Club, said.

Gandy battled a world-ranked Russian, 6-0, 5-4. "It was the closest I've ever come to beating him," Gandy said of the title bout.

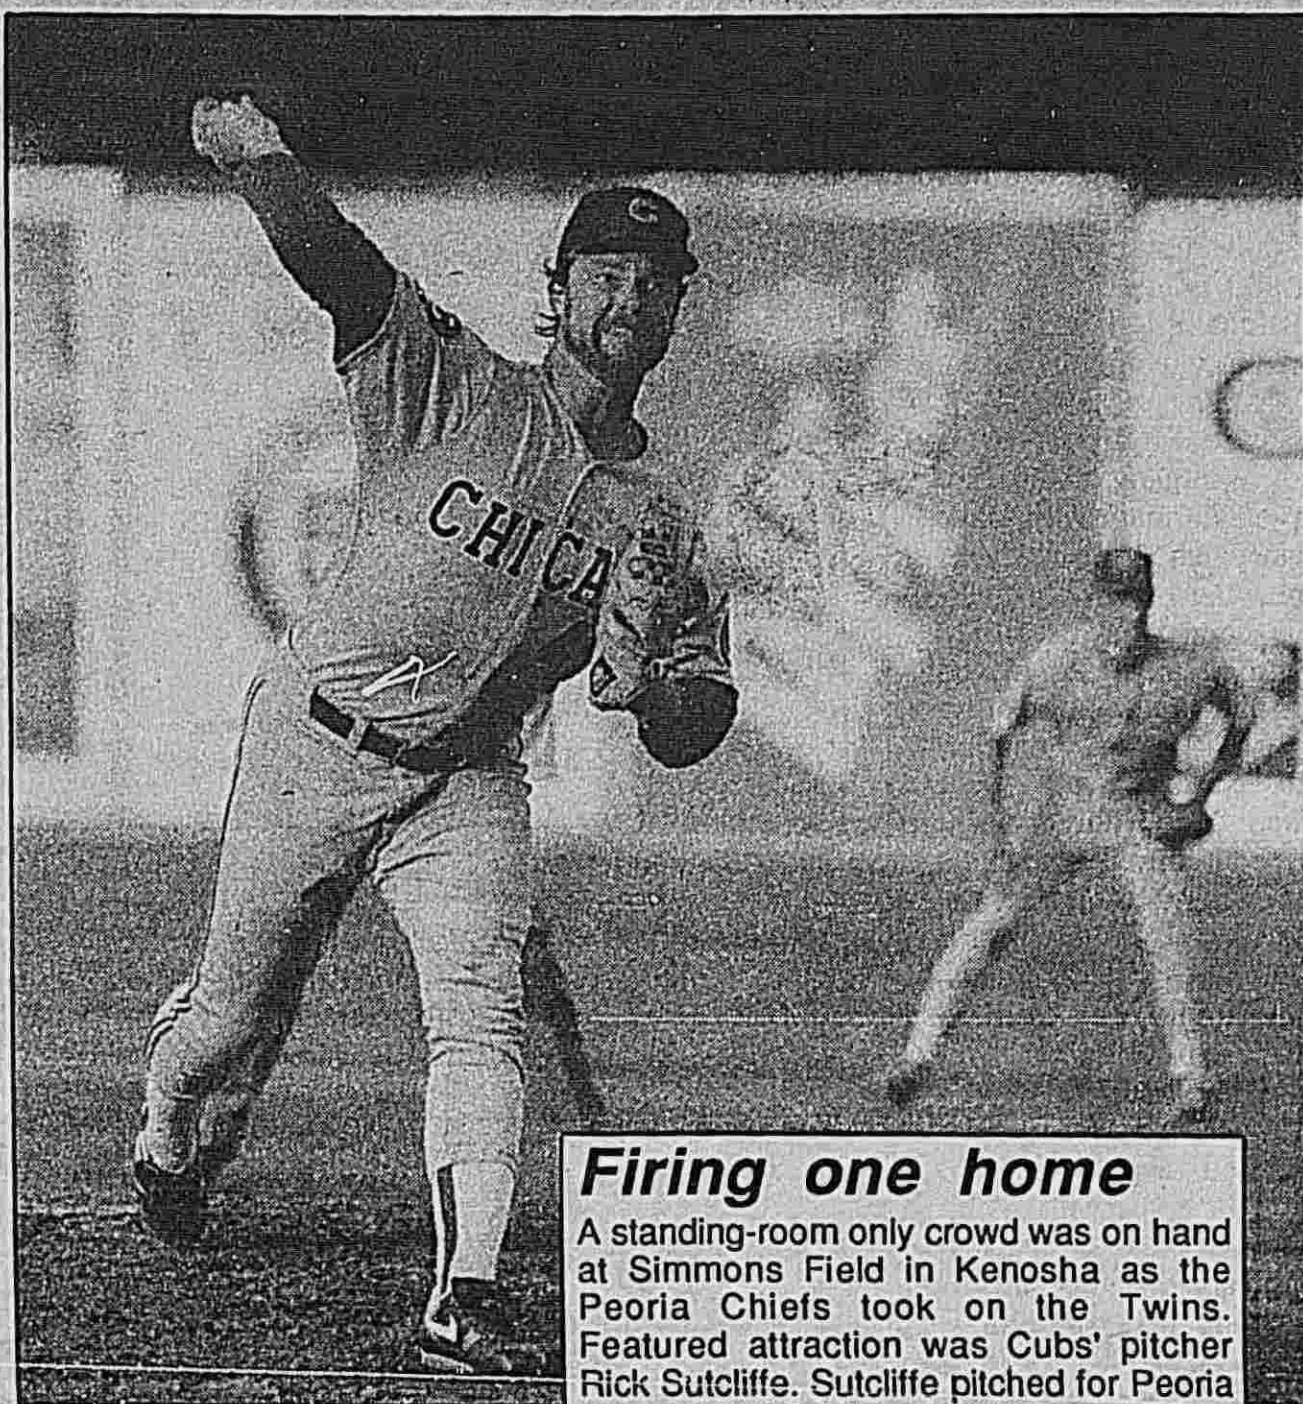

Gandy is a fencing veteran, having been involved in the sport since 1977, sabre for the last 18 months. "Fernando has given my level of fencing a real boost," Gandy said. "Fernando is more than just a coach; he is a father or brother."

Gandy, a former policeman in Joliet, has worked for the last three years as a child counselor.

He sees bright things for Chicago area fencing in the coming years, especially with Glasnost which knocked down the Berlin Wall.

"Fencing over there is what baseball is here," Gandy said.

Most of the Lake County contingent competed in the CLC Fencing Club hosted tournament at St. Charles this summer and will be at CLC's tourney in November.

Firing one home

A standing-room only crowd was on hand at Simmons Field in Kenosha as the Peoria Chiefs took on the Twins. Featured attraction was Cubs' pitcher Rick Sutcliffe. Sutcliffe pitched for Peoria as part of his injury rehabilitation program.

Mandrella, Ferguson help Lakers garner gold medal

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Lake County area basketball fans will have the opportunity to watch some of the best junior high players in the country when a tourney comes to Grayslake Community High School July 20.

The tournament features the Lakers as well as a state power from South Dakota, Indiana and two from the Milwaukee area.

Grayslake's Dave Mandrella and Jason Ferguson, who will be headed to Stevenson High School are members of the Lakers team which won the gold medal at last week's Prairie State Games Hoopfest. The Lakers downed Hathburg 103-50, Lockport 89-40, Champaign 83-52, Columbia 62-32 and Quincy 87-56. Quincy came into the tourney as an unbeaten team.

"Our kids get up to their competition's level. We knew Champaign and Quincy had a pretty good team," Coach Dave Strojinc said.

Strojinc said Mandrella is "a real good penetrator. He's our team leader."

Mandrella had 10 points and led the team in assists while Ferguson had 11 in the win over Columbia.

Ferguson had 18 points and Mandrella had 14 points, eight rebounds and 12 assists in the final game.

The Prairie State Games, held at the University of Illinois was used by the team as a primer for the national tourney in Virginia. Mandrella likes his team's chances.

"I think we should finish in the top eight," Mandrella said.

Mandrella rewrote the record books at Grayslake Junior High. His eighth grade team was unbeaten until it was upset by Woodland.

Mandrella was considering attending Carmel High School, but opted to attend Grayslake High instead.

The tourney schedule: 8:30 a.m. Lakers vs. Milwaukee Electronics; 9:45 a.m. Aberdeen, S.D. vs. Firman, Ind; 11 a.m. Indiana vs. Oak Creek, Wis.; 12:15 p.m., Milwaukee Electronics vs. Firman; 1:30 p.m. Lakers vs. Anderson, Ind; 2:45 p.m. Anderson vs. Oak Creek.

Three gain medals for PSG basketball efforts

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

One may be playing in Europe next fall, another will be playing in a college in Chicago while a third's season will be just beginning to heat up.

When a day-long of basketball at Assembly Hall at the University of Illinois at Champaign concluded just past 11 p.m. Saturday night, Shawn Harlan, Lisa Foss and Layton Kidder all had one thing in common. They were proudly showing off Prairie State Games medals.

Harlan was a reserve on the Scholastic Men's team which easily downed Pioneer 87-72 in the championship game. Foss scored 37 points but had to settle for the silver medal as the North Shore Open Women's basketball team fell in a exciting overtime game 110-103. Kidder scored five points as the Chicago Bulls Wheelchair basketball team downed Windy City 40-25 for the gold medal.

The public address announcer tried his best to encourage those at Assembly Hall to stick around for the wheelchair action. But few took him up on it, as less than 100 watched Kidder and his teammates take home the gold. But the lack of a crowd does not take away from the accomplishment.

"The difference was we were more experienced," Kidder, a Wauconda resident, said.

Kidder plays forward for the Bulls team, sponsored by the NBA champions. He started playing wheelchair basketball six years ago following a spinal cord injury. "Playing wheelchair basketball gets you back to the community," Kidder said.

The 40-25 title game score was low, Kidder said, but that may be due to the fact that only six players made the trip. Greg Palumbo was the leading scorer for the winners, with 15 points.

Jason Fabian of Buffalo Grove played for the Windy City team and took home a silver medal.

The Bulls, which held a game at Wauconda High School this spring, start their schedule in earnest in October.

Blue Grey set a new record in the event with a 191-5.1.

•In girls soccer, the North Shore continued to hold onto the gold medal it has won every year. But the team suffered an upset when Wilco downed them 1-0 in the semi-final round. North Shore downed Pioneer 3-2 in the title game in overtime.

Libertyville girls state championship team was represented as well as Antioch's Carrie Delany. Kim Marshall scored a goal on her birthday as North Shore downed Blackhawk 4-0 in the second round. Marshall enjoyed a bucket of water dumped on her as a birthday present.

•In wrestling, Libertyville Coach Dale Eggert won a gold medal as did Mike Jones of North Chicago. In scholastic men's action, Mike Bauman of Libertyville and Antioch's Greg Zalapi. Mundelein junior to be Eric Browne was fifth at 119.

Round Lake's Surlata nets second feature win

Larry Surlata of Round Lake won a feature race in the spectator stocks division at Wisconsin Fans For Auto Racing night held at Wilmot Speedway.

Bill Ring led the first two circuits of the spectator stock main before Scott Kuxhouse overtook the front spot on lap three. Two circuits later, the first of three caution flags flew. Each time, Kuxhouse was able to stay in front with the second coming on lap seven for debris. Kuxhouse and Surlata engaged in a side-by-side battle on lap nine. Just prior to the final caution on lap 10, when Phil Hubbard lost his driveshaft, Surlata put his Daimler Autohaus-Hurlburt Racing Engines Camaro in front using the outside groove. Surlata won his second feature of the year.

Mike Frost of Winthrop Harbor won the 25-lap sprint feature race with Dave Hanna of Grayslake second and Dave Moulis of Johnsburg third.

Wilmot Speedway will host Herb's Auto Parts & Car Sales Night July 20 with sprints, late models and spectator stocks action scheduled with with sprint time trials at 6:15 p.m. Grandstands open at 5 p.m.

Hanna eighth in sprints

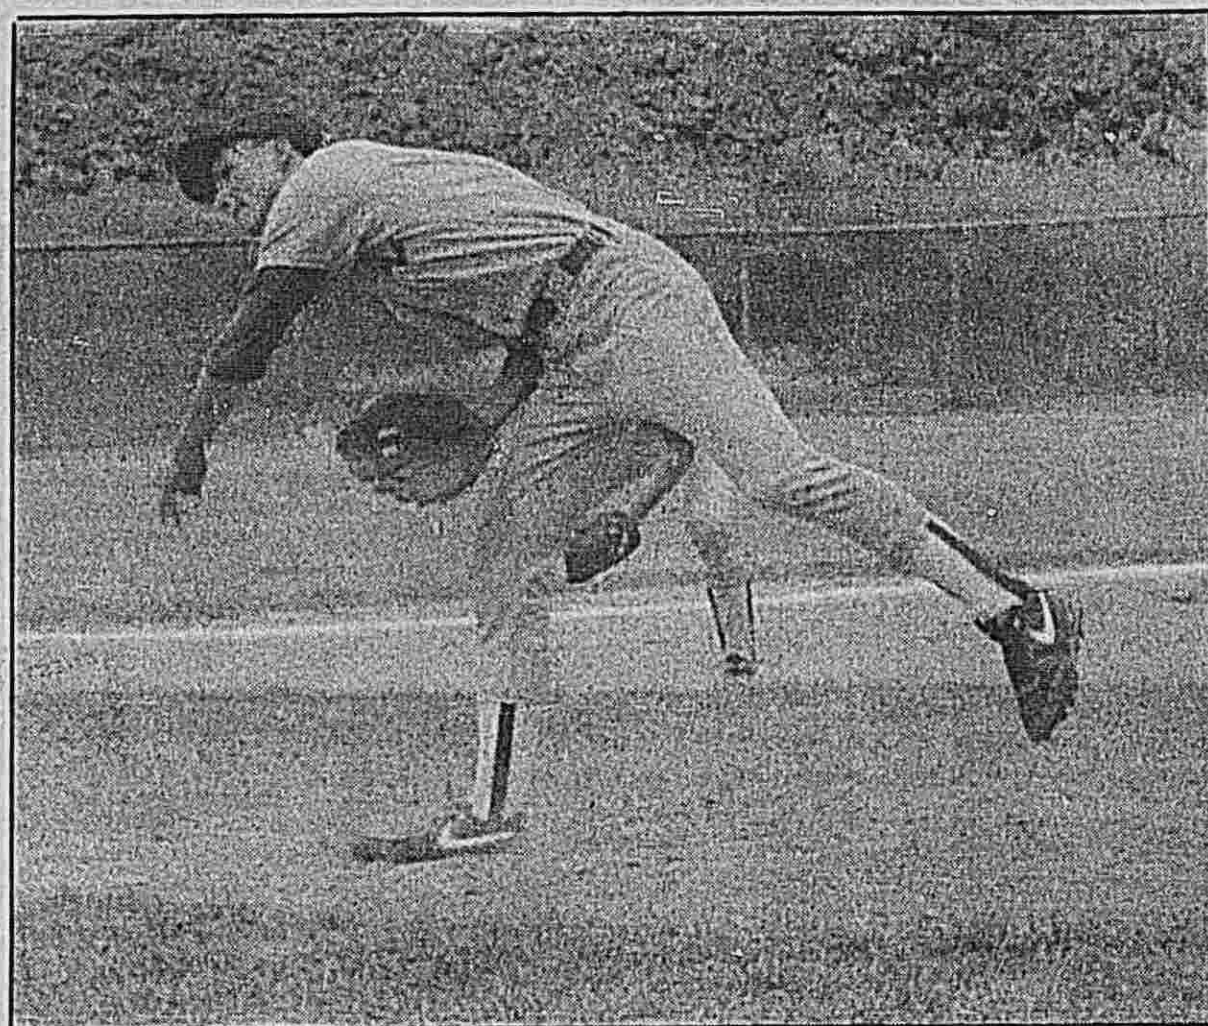

"The Wolf" was on the prowl July 10 at the 10th annual Wilmot Open Sprints sponsored race a Doug Wolfgang of Sioux Falls, S.D. captured the $5,000 first prize plus a $1,000 bonus for being a past-champion in the top three in winning the 30-lap "A" Main.

Stevie Smith Jr. overtook Wolfgang on the third lap of the main with Dave Blaney, who had already set a new track record in qualifying and won his 10-lap qualifying heat race, moved into the runner-up spot on lap six. The only caution flag came on lap eight when Jac Haudenschield looped in turn two when he got caught too high on the ridge.

For Lake County racers, Jim Moulis was third in the 20-lap "B" main, with Dave Moulis fifth.

Dave Hanna of Grayslake finished eighth in the sprint "A" main. John Tierney of Lake Villa was ninth and Wayne Russell of Round Lake was 17th.

A total of 48 cars from 10 states plus Australia competed before a capacity crowd.

Grayslake's Hanna nets biggest payday

Dave Hanna of Grayslake scored an impressive clean sweep of the J&L Oil Sprint Shootout Qualifying Round II by posting the fastest time and winning the heat and the 25-lap feature. Scott Kuxhouse of Round Lake made it two spectator stock main wins in a row at Wilmot Speedway in Wilmot, Wis.

Randy Sippel paced the first 10 laps of the sprint main with Hanna moving his Lundy & Miller Excavating-Prototype Racing Engines 1988 Gambler into the runnerup spot, challenging Sippel from the high side. On the 10th lap, Hanna shot into the lead down the front straightway bringing the near-capacity crowd to its feet. The only caution flew on lap 19. On the restart, Hanna powered away from the field using the long way around the high side.

Dave Moulis of Johnsburg

took the runner-up spot in a wing-to-wing with Joe Roe, who was third.

"This was the greatest win for our team," said Hanna, noting the $1,000 first place money plus $700 J&L Oil Fast Mover bonus netted him his biggest career payday.

Sheriff urges lower speeds on Chain

by KRIS NOBILIO

In the wake of recent boat accidents, the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. marine Patrol is recommending to the Chain-O-Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency that night time speed limits be reduced on the water.

Capt. Tom Gardner recommended that the limit be set at 15 m.p.h., stating that a reduced speed "will enhance safety, lengthen boater's reaction time and lessen the impact of possible accidents." Gardner further offered that "We (the Sheriff's Dept.) do not feel that by amending the regulations commerce will suffer."

In support of their recommendation, the Sheriff's Dept. presented a study compiled by Mike Magnuson of the Lake County Dept. of Transportation. The survey was conducted by highway engineers in Sheriff's boats who randomly recorded the speeds of boats in heavy traffic areas using traffic radar equipment. The datum was collected on a Saturday night from 8:20 to 11 p.m., and a total of 329 boats were observed. Although the average speed was 12.2 m.p.h., speeds of up to 49 m.p.h. were clocked.

The jet ski issue was also addressed, and Magnuson reported that a review of jet ski accidents in 1990 revealed that "Four out of the six jet ski accidents did not involve boats, only two jet skis." Magnuson commented that "The sudden turns and stops ran though as causes of jet ski accidents."

Acknowledging the need for attention to the speed limit question, George

Thompson, one of the agency's directors, said that night time speed limits

"will have to be a board issue which will eventually go for public hearing."

HEEL PAIN

Almost everyone suffers from pain in the heel at one time or another.

Heel spur syndrome is a common cause of heel pain. If you experience a sharp, shooting type pain or a dull aching bruised sensation in your heel when you first put weight on your heel in the morning or after prolonged sitting, you may be suffering from heel spur syndrome.

This condition consists of two components — inflammation of the plantar fascia, the ligament, that runs along the bottom surface of the foot from the ball to the heel and an actual spur which is a bony projection on the bottom of the heel.

Not all heel spurs hurt; it is the inflammation of the structures that causes the pain, and thus, treatment is aimed at reducing the stress on the foot and decreasing the inflammation. Treatment for heel spur syndrome usually involves rest, a series of steroid injections, anti-inflammatory oral medication, physical therapy, and orthotics (custom made arch supports) which relieve stress on the plantar fascia.

Persistent heel spurs are treated, however, surgically by removing the bony spur and releasing the plantar fascia. If you are suffering from this condition, please feel free to contact Dr. Lee Tisa for a NO-COST CONSULTATION to discuss your condition and treatment options.

Be sure to share the road safely with cyclists

If asked, many of us would probably say we're careful when it comes to sharing the road with other drivers. But we don't just share the road with other vehicles. As the weather is warm and schools are out for summer vacation, there will also be more bicyclists on the road. And that means keeping a careful lookout for them, as well.

Motorists should pay particular attention to children on bicycles. While only about two percent of all traffic deaths involve bicyclists, most of those killed or injured are children.

The majority of all bicyclists death—60 percent—occur during warm weather, especially during June, July and August. And nearly two-thirds of the bicycle accident deaths occur between noon and 9 p.m., with the peak hours being between 3 and 6 p.m.

More males are killed riding bicycles than females. The male to female ratio of bicyclist deaths for all ages is more than five to one.

As a motorist, you can help avoid accidents with bicycles. here are a few simple suggestions:

- Be ready to yield to oncoming traffic. Before turning, look left for cyclists.

- Allow adequate following distance if a cyclist is in the lane ahead of you, and never share a lane with a cyclist.

- When passing a cyclist, allow a full lane for the cyclist, and avoid returning to the original lane too soon.

- Be aware that road

hazards such as potholes, oil slicks, puddles and road debris may cause a cyclist to make a sudden change in a lane position.
